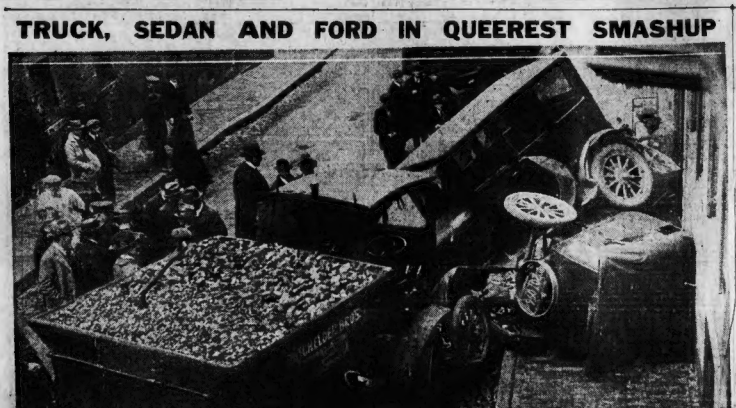
TRUCK, SEDAN AND FORD IN QUEEREST SMASHUP



RESULT OF A DOUBLE "RUNAWAY" DOWN PINCKNEY STREET, BEACON HILL

A coal truck, about to unload on Pinckney street, Beacon Hill at 8:30 today, broke loose and started down hill. It struck a parked sedan on the way and both bowled along until they reached a parked Ford further down the street. The Ford was knocked end up against the house, the sedan was wedged in the mess and the truck bumped into the two and came to rest. A queer mix-up.

NURSE DIES OF ILLEGAL SURGERY

Newburyport Physician to Be Questioned in Death Investigation

Haverhill, Nov. 23.—Edith Taylor, 23 years old, superintendent of the Homeopathic Hospital at Newburyport, is dead, a victim of an illegal operation.

She died in Gale Hospital here on Wednesday.

She was taken to the hospital the previous day.

Report of Medical Examiner Dr. F. W. Anthony gives death as due to "blood poisoning."

An inquest into the death of the nurse, described as unusually pretty, will be held a week from tomorrow. A Newburyport physician will be summoned to tell what he knows of the case. His arrest is foreshadowed.

Police and medical authorities have taken unusual means to keep the nurse's death a secret. It leaked out today. A scandal in hospital circles is due to follow. It is said Miss Taylor was friendly with a well-known physician.

Miss Taylor was born in Conway, N. H. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Taylor, live there. She had been superintendent of the Homeopathic Hospital at Newburyport for the last year. She was on duty up to the time she was hurried to the Gale Hospital.

She was trained for her profession

PASTOR CONFESSES IN QUACK SCANDAL

Hartford, Nov. 23.—More astounding grows the State probe into the "diploma mills" scandal, rapidly becoming nation wide.

Today an ex-Lutheran preacher bared his part in it.

He is also a professor, former State supervisor of public schools in the State of Missouri—a big job. Also friend to and campaigner for the late Champ Clark, United States Senators Reed, Stone and others.

He is Prof. William P. Sachs. He confesses to—

Selling 1,500 high school diplomas for $10 apiece, resold by the quack ring at from $100 to $500 each.

He will testify before the extraordinary

ELIS HERE TO BATTLE HARVARD

By NICK FLATLEY

Yale's great undefeated football team reached Boston today, so did thousands on thousands of enthusiastic Yale supporters, and Harvard immediately became a record short-end eleven.

Blue fans were offering 3 to 1 all around town, and where they couldn't get that snapped up, some chased the odds up to 10 to 3.

When the word went around, Harvard rooters unstrapped the bankrolls and indications are that there will be plenty of wild wagering on the contest.

Yale is confident, overconfident as a matter of fact.

Harvard is hopeful and determined as Harvard has been for the past two years when Eli was also a heavy favorite.

Tad Jones brought his athletes out to the Stadium for practice this afternoon. The four Yale squads were merely to go through a long signal drill. The backs were to spend the afternoon catching punts and getting used to the breeze that twist peculiarly around the horseshoe.

Tad hasn't predicted a thing all year, and was just as talkative today.

Coach Bob Fisher of Harvard was equally noisy.

WALTON INDICTED ON EIGHT CHARGES

Gov. Walton

Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 23 (I.N.S.).—J. C. Walton, deposed Governor of Oklahoma, was indicted by the Oklahoma Grand Jury today. Eight true bills were returned against him. One indictment charged a felony, that of stopping the Oklahoma Legislature on Sept. 26.

The others were misdemeanors, charging padding of State payrolls and one was of intimidating officers.

Dr. A. E. Davenport, State Health Commissioner, and T. F. Edwards, the former governor's chauffeur, also were indicted charged with felony.

The charge against the latter two was diverting State funds through Edward Being, an employe of the State Health Department and on the Governor's staff as a Major in the National Guard without rendering any service to the State.

GERMAN 'RED' PARTY BANNED BY NATIONAL ARMY CHIEF

Ludwigshafen, Nov. 23 (I.N.S.)—German Separatists seized this city today.

Berlin, Nov. 23 (A.P.)—Balloting on the motion of confidence in the Stresemann government, was postponed until seven o'clock tonight.

Berlin, Nov. 23 (AP.—General Von Seeckt, national commander of the Reichswehr, today ordered the dissolution of the German Communist party and the confiscation of its funds.

His decree also prohibited the holding of Communist meetings and the publication of Communist news.

It was later stated that the dissolution order also applied to all Nationalists and National Socialist party organizations.

The order fell like a bombshell upon the Reichstag and seemed likely

HURLED DOWN STAIRS, KILLED BY WOMAN

Peter Horn, thirty-two years old, of the Back Bay district of Boston, was hurled to his death by a woman in a Columbus avenue house.

This is the verdict of police, who after working on the case declare Horn was thrown down a flight of threw his body out onto the sidewalk.

Horn was picked up unconscious from the sidewalk by police and rushed to the City Hospital where he died a few hours later from a fractured skull.

Special officers from the East Dedham street police station expect hourly to arrest a woman living on Columbus avenue, South End.

At the time of Horn's death, police refused to accept the theory that death was accidental and declared there had been foul play.

They are confident the South End woman will be able to give the police valuable information.

TRUCK RUNS WILD DOWN BEACON HILL

At 8:30 a. m. today the usual Beacon Hill calm of Pinckney street was unbroken. At 8:31 the street was in an uproar.

A Batchelder Brothers' five-ton coal truck had just driven up to deliver its load at No. 62. The driver was off his seat and the helper on the load. The engine was stopped and all was still.

Down the hill Eliot Henderson's sedan was parked in front of his home, No. 74 Pinckney street. Further down on the other side, in front of the apartment house numbered 73½, was Peter DeGroote's little Ford touring car.

Poising, as if for a billiard carom, the truck gently slipped its brake and started for the sedan. Down the steep hill it went, gathering headway rapidly. Arthur Demato, the driver's helper, jumped.

The truck nudged the sedan, which backed off, as if the advances of the coarse, smudgy, work-a-day machine were obnoxious to its refined, Beacon Hill sensibilities.

Nose to nose the two heavy machines crashed down onto DeGroote's little touring car, which rolled over on its back and gave up the ghost. The momentum of the truck with its heavy load backed the sedan completely over the Ford, and all three machines came to rest in the position shown in the picture.

No one was hurt.

PASTOR CATCHES THIEF WHO HAD HARD LUCK TALE

Philip Bridges, an eighteen-year-old youth living at No. 8 Alfred terrace, Medford, today called at the parsonages of the West Somerville Baptist Church and told Rev. George E. Heath that he was a member of the church and in distress.

Bridges told the pastor that he was a bank messenger and had lost $55 belonging to the bank. He had $50 and wanted but $5 to make up the amount.

Mr. Heath quietly telephoned for the police, detaining Bridges until they arrived. The police found in the pockets of the youth's clothing a pawn ticket for an overcoat stolen from Horace A. Lewis of West Somerville, which was taken from the Park Avenue Church on the night of Armistice Day.

Bridges pleaded guilty to larceny of the coat and attempted larceny from the clergyman and was sent to the East Cambridge jail for a further hearing.

CAPTURE 2 IN FLOCK OF WOMEN PICKPOCKETS

In the trade these girls are known as "mell buzzers." Their prey is confined to their own sex.

Two were caught in the act and arrested, Lena Stern and Rose Finn, both from the big village of New York.

2 HUB DEALERS ARRESTED FOR SALE OF "SNAPPY" BOOKS

James E. Williams, proprietor of Williams Book Store in the Old South Church, known for generations, and Richard G. Badger, publisher, who operates the Gorham Press, were arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Hayes in Federal Court today, charged with violating interstate laws by shipping improper books out of Boston.

"The worst books I ever saw," was the comment of Commissioner Hayes.

It is charged Williams and Badger shipped 2,00 of the volumes to Ohio for sale. Federal sleuths traced them back to Boston and arrested the men. They are held in $1,000 bail each for trial on December 7.

SEIZE 200 CASES OF RUM IN AN EVERETT GARAGE

Federal Prohibition enforcement agents, under the direction of Albert J. Lynch swooped down on the Center Garage, No. 241 Broadway, Everett today, and seized over 200 cases of assorted liquors.

Joseph Callero of No. 2 Deshong Park, Everett, whom the police say is the owner of the garage, was summoned to appear before Federal Commissioner Hayes next Monday. Two of his companions, Frank Minutoli of No. 88 Broadway, Chelsea, and Fred Gulfoyle of No. 4 Douglas street, Cambridge were also summoned.

PRICE OF TURKEYS LOWERED; CHAIN STORES CAUSE BREAK

The price of your Thanksgiving turkey is being lowered as a result of the venture of the great chain stores into the poultry business.

Connors 450 Brookside stores announce Thanksgiving turkeys at forty-five cents a pound, about fifteen cents a pound cheaper than the price last year, a saving of better than $100,000 this year to 40,000 families.

"These birds are from Kentucky," says Pres. Chas. Fudema. "The trouble in the turkey line with most merchandising is the profit taken by middlemen and the speculation.

"Turkeys are a new departure for us. We handle them out of sentiment, just as we first handled milk. It may become a permanent thing. New England is in a far corner of the country and sometimes doesn't get a square deal."

GOCKELMAN ONCE ACCUSED OF FRAUD IN BAY STATE

dinary grand jury conducting the "mill" probe here.

Today he told newspaper men this story:

He has a wife and daughter in St. Louis and it was to save them that he decided to come forward and do everything in his power to help the authorities throttle the menace.

Professor Sachs told how he followed the ministry for twenty years, and how his powers of oratory caused him to be in such demand that he finally was swept from the pulpit to the political platform, where he stumped for Champ Clark, Senators Reed, Stone and others.

He said his activities on the stump brought him the political plum of State Examiner of public schools, in which capacity he was thrown in contact with Dr. Robert A. Cox of St. Louis, one of the master minds of the Missouri diploma mill. Cox began by obtaining behest of science degrees from Professor Sachs, who had charge of conferring the same at a local university.

Next Cox tempted Sachs to sell fake high school diplomas for students who were being railroaded through the fake Missouri medical schools. Sachs said Cox only paid him $10 for each high school diploma, and that Cox sold them for any where from $100 to $500.

SIXTY "FAKE" DOCTORS.

Sachs said he sold about 1,500 of these spurious high school diplomas. He said he knew of at least a dozen physicians and surgeons practicing in New York or employed on hospital staffs there who are products of the "Quack Ring."

Sachs named sixty Connecticut physicians whom he knows to have secured fraudulent credentials. Among them he mentions Dr. James A. Christian of Fairfield, recently ousted as secretary of the Connecticut Eclectic Society and Dr. Ralph L. White of New Canaan, another member of the Eclectic board, as having received bogus high school diplomas from him.

A number of subpoenas, issued by State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn, for additional witnesses to appear before the jury were served today.

Dr. Stanley H. Osborn, commissioner of health, today officially stated that no request had been made by the jury to recall the licenses of certain physicians said to be holding fraudulent diplomas. He said his department had no power to act in this matter. It had been reported that fifty physicians were to have their licenses recalled.

Dr. Isidore Yochelman of Bridgeport, who had a somewhat hectic career as a medical student in Boston and who received his "degree" from one of the medical schools recently closed by the Missouri authorities, looms prominently in the investigation of the "quack" Missouri diploma ring by the Grand Jury extraordinary in this city.

Yochelman was rebuked for "trying to hug Salvation Army lassies and other girl employes" at the Salvation Army dispensary in Roxbury, Mass., and expelled from there as an interne while enrolled as a student at Middlesex College of Physicians and Surgeons in Cambridge.

According to the records at Middlesex school, Yochelman's impersonation of Romeo with the "Sailies" at the dispensary was so ardent and objectionable that Dr. Rudy Gifford threatened to "throw him out."

Registrar John Hall Smith came to the rescue by ordering Yochelman's removal from the dispensary staff. There were other exploits chalked down to Yochelman's credit while a student at Middlesex College.

Yochelman's alleged close liaison with the Missouri schools recently raided and reports that bands of students which he piloted West from Boston returned in amazingly short time with medical diplomas, has interested the Connecticut officials in his case. He is among the half hundred witnesses subpoenaed.

He passed the Connecticut medical board twice, after having been rejected in Massachusetts. He presented a diploma from the St. Louis College of Physicians and Surgeons when granted a license by the Connecticut medical board. He has conducted a hospital and clinic in Bridgeport.

CONVICTED OF PERJURY.

Yochelman was found guilty of perjury in Massachusetts and sentenced to serve fifteen months in jail for falsely swearing before the Massachusetts board of registration that he was a graduate of a medical school in Russia. The records at Middlesex College of Physicians and Surgeons in Cambridge show that he was born in Vilna, Russia, Jan. 23, 1892.

Yochelman is alleged to have posed as a graduate of Westerleigh Collegiate Institute of New York, a secondary school. There was question how he received this diploma, according to allegations by investigators here.

FRAUD ALLEGED.

Yochelman is alleged to have secured the fake Westerleigh Collegiate Institute credential in an attempt to secure enrolment in the Tufts Medical School. He applied for admission in the fourth year class of Middlesex College of Physicians and Surgeons, Sept. 20, 1917, claiming, according to the records, that he had studied a year at Tufts, 1914-1915 and three years at the Boston College of Physicians and Surgeons, 1911,'12, 1915-'16 and 1916-'17.

New York Starts Crusade Against Quack Doctors

New York, Nov. 23.—Between 1,500 and 2,000 impostors are practicing medicine in New York City without a license, said Dr. S. Dana Hubbard, director of public health education, in the Public Health Department. Dr. Hubbard called on District Attorney Banton to ask co-operation in a crusade against bogus doctors.

Dr. Hubbard attacked officials for allowing the escape of James A. De Marco and Achilles De Marco, sought for questioning in connection with reports that they were sole agents for medical institutions now under grand jury investigation at Hartford, Conn.

$52,300 VERDICT FOR INFERIOR PULP

Judge Weed in Superior Court today awarded the Nashua River Paper Company of Pepperell a verdict of $52,300.80 against Edwin P. Lindsay of Boston, dealer in pulp. The award followed a breach of contract suit. The Nashua company charged Lindsay with having sold them an inferior grade of pulp represented as Grade "A," in 1918.

Allopathic license	250 to 750
Second hand license (from which name of original holder has been erased)	100
License in New York, Massachusetts, Illinois and other States with forcible medical practice acts and boards that could not be "reached" making it necessary for proxy to take examination	1000

SUICIDE WIFE OF "QUACK"

George J. Boucher, "quack" doctor, who has flown Hartford, Ct., following the grand jury investigation there of the diploma mill scandal, was the husband of a suicide.

She was Bernice Boucher, who killed herself when she lost the love of the Rev. Francis B. Boyer, the divine who has figured in news scandals for the past year.

Dying in her apartment at No. 1738 Commonwealth avenue, she called for Boyer. He hastened to her side. He had been a frequent visitor at her apartment. His implication with her tragic end caused a sensation in Episcopal Church circles. He had been assistant rector at the Church of the Advent.

Now police hunt "Dr." Boucher, George J. Boucher once, she called for Boyer. He hastened to her side. He had been a frequent visitor at her apartment. His implication with her tragic end caused a sensation in Episcopal Church circles. He had been assistant rector at the Church of the Advent.

Now police hunt "Dr." Boucher, who almost suffocated a patient at Bristol Hospital in Hartford endeavoring to administer an anaesthetic. He claims to have been graduated from the Middlesex College of Physicians and Surgeons at East Cambridge.

John Gets Off Easy; All He Lost Was The Alcohol

John Buccheri of Clinton street, Newton, was nabbed with seven barrels of alcohol on Atlantic avenue and taken to court. Chemical test showed the alcohol contained a foreign substance.

It could not be used as a beverage. Under the laws therefore John wasn't subject to court action so Judge Murray in Municipal Court discharged him in this wise.

"I'll introduce you to Uncle Sam, young man."

He pointed to a federal agent.

"Shucks, all I can do," said the latter, "is seize the alcohol."

Exit John, smiling.

Presidential Year
England Asks Freely After an Earthquake
$5,000,000 Advertising

Current Events

—by Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1923, by Star Company

THE BUSINESS man's "bad Presidential year" will not be a bad year, unless merchants and people combine to make it so.

A good year depends on good buying. Nothing in the election of a President prevents people buying the usual supplies, from ice cream sodas to fur coats; from factory sites to bungalows.

THIS PRESIDENTIAL year ought to be our most prosperous year. The election reminds the people that this country is managed by its inhabitants, for the benefit of the inhabitants, when they take the trouble to vote thoughtfully.

EUROPE IS worried, harassed, nations mistrusting each other, taxing each other's products. Here we have one hundred and ten millions of people living at peace in forty-eight different States, all trading freely, back and forth, from ocean to ocean.

While other nations lack food and raw materials, our problem is to get rid of our surplus on a profitable basis.

We haven't even begun to scratch the wealth of this country. Wages are higher than they ever were; prosperity is greater than it ever was. There is more money to be spent than there ever was.

Nineteen hundred and twenty-four, the Presidential year, ought to be the maximum year of American prosperity for all time.

It will be, if the pessimists will allow it.

THE BRITISH, it seems, are considering a serious protest against our treatment of Hindus coming to this country from India, where Britain rules. Our Supreme Court decides that laws in California and Washington against foreigners owning land applies to Hindus. England says that will never do.

THE BRITISH protest is particularly interesting in view of the fact that Britain's own colonies, Canada and South Africa, will not permit Hindus from British India or any other British Asiatics to settle on their land.

It seems the United States must not exclude British Hindu subjects, although the most important dominions of the British Empire do exclude them.

The British at least are frank in telling you what they want. The United States should be as frank in telling them they won't get it.

CHARGES PILED with the Department of State at Washington by American citizens accuse the Japanese of dreadful cruelty to Koreans, in the panic and rage following the earthquake. MRS. BOYER FILES PLEA IN DIVORCE

Illegal Wife of Unfrocked Minister Begins Annulment Suit

The only wife Rev. Francis B. Boyer had left is trying to sever the ties which bind but are not legal under Bay State statutes.

Mrs. Lucille G. Macomber Boyer today filed in Suffolk Probate Court, an application to annul her marriage to the unfrocked Episcopal clergyman who wed her before the terms of his first wife's divorce allowed him to do so.

The Rev. Boyer has had a hectic career. His first wife, Katherine Gardner, niece of Mrs. Jack Gardner, divorced him after Bernice Boucher, pretty Allston divorcee, had killed herself with poison for love of him. He lost his church along with other things.

Inside the time limit imposed by the divorce of his first wife, he wed pretty Lucille Macomber of Nova Scotia. Complications arose and they lived apart.

Both were in Brighton police court this week, he on a charge of bigamy, she on that of misconduct. Dismissed, the agile former clergyman leaped ten feet out of a rear window to avoid photographers.

The petition of Mrs. Boyer No. 2 asserts she wed Boyer in good faith, in the City Hall at Portland, Me., on January 25, 1923, "wholly ignorant that such marriage was null and void under the laws of this Commonwealth."

MRS. McVIKER AND THE DUCKING

TAKE LAST NIP, THEN GIVE UP RUM BOAT

Highlands, N. J., Nov. 23.—Disabled in a heavy sea and forced to anchor off Sandy Hook, until daybreak, one of the fastest of the Jersey rum-smuggling boats with its crew of three was rescued today by coast guards after the cargo had been consigned to the deep.

One bottle was taken from the last case, and out of it each of the crew took a drink, then tossed it over the side and waited for the coast guard boat to heave a towing line.

HUB MEN CAUGHT IN RUM TRAP

Portsmouth, N. H., Nov. 23.—Clay R. Rogers and Thomas Murphy, giving Boston as their old home town, were arraigned in Concord today, after being arrested here by members of the Federal flying squadron. A trap set by the dry agents, with 25 gallons of alleged alcohol, caused their undoing.

Federal Agent Early of the squadron, posing as a hootch buyer, made a deal with the men in Boston. They were to deliver the alcohol to a Ralph Johnson of Portsmouth for $250.

The pair took Early to Lawrence, where he paid half the purchase price. The stuff was loaded on a truck and Early then accompanied the men here. On arrival they found "Johnson" was a federal agent. With him was another, named Aldrich, formerly a Boston policeman. The two men and the 25 gallons were taken into custody, after arraignment in Concord they will be arrested on State warrants and brought back here to stand trial in Municipal Court.

DEDHAM HOUSE FIRE DOES $5,000 DAMAGE

A fire which started in the cellar and worked its way to the roof, caused damage estimated at $5,000 today to a house at High street and Village avenue, Dedham. Workmen have been repairing the house for the owner, Albert Hussey of Roslindale, who intended to move into it next week.

GIRL IN STOLEN CAR TELLS OF JOY-RIDES

A touring car owned by George F. Sable of No. 49 Hall avenue, Watertown, stolen from in front of the Copley-Plaza a month ago, was found in Everett, in the car at the time were Pearl Perry, twenty years old, of No. 402 Windsor street, Cambridge, and Helen Hanson, seventeen, of No. 109A Mechanics street, Marlboro.

Miss Hanson declared today that she met the Perry girl while the two worked in the Apsley Mills at Hudson. When Miss Perry ran away from home she lived with Mrs. Virginia Hanson, mother of Helen. "On Wednesday," she said, "we went riding with a man named George Paul, of Medford, and another fellow named Herbert Williams, who said he lives on Commonwealth avenue, Boston. We went to a dance and later to Springfield. We stopped that night at the Grand Hotel, in separate rooms. Then we drove home. I wanted to get off at Marlboro, but the boys induced me to go to Boston."

Washington, Nov. 23.—A man must be "hard boiled" to stay or get anywhere in public life, Chas. E. Sawyer, President Harding's personal physician and a central figure in the Veterans' Bureau investigation, said today in addressing the Southern Homeopathic Medical Association's convention.

Dr. Sawyer

Furthermore, Dr. Sawyer said, he had learned from "recent experiences that it is safer not to talk."

Referring to his present position as physician to President Coolidge, Dr. Sawyer said that in that relation both he and Lieutenant-Commander Joe T. Boone had the same accord with the executive as with the late President Harding, and that "as far as those relations go they are changed in name only."

RADIO LIKE AN 'EVENING PAPER' TO ISOLATED POLAR PARTY

Prince Rupert, B. C., Nov. 23.—Wireless reports from nine different countries and communication with a station in Hawaii has been established by the radio operator of the vessel Bowdoin, now 760 miles from the North Pole with Captain Donald B. McMillan, Arctic explorer, aboard, according to a message received here from the exploration party.

Captain McMillan radioed that "news of the world was received like an 'evening paper' from two European wireless stations."

"With the coming of the big night, amateur radio stations in the East are being picked up and heard a little more distinctly, his message declared. "The Bowdoin wireless operator made a record when he talked with an amateur station in Hawaii, 5,000 miles away. We have heard stations in England, Germany, Holland, Mexico, France, Norway, Italy, Japan and Spain."

600 MORE ON FULL TIME AT AMOSKEAG

Manchester, N. H., Nov. 23.—Four more mills of the Amoskeag Manufacturing Co. cotton division, will resume operation Monday, the company announced today. The four mills will provide work for approximately 600 operatives. Several of the mills now operating on part time will go on a full time schedule. More than one-half of the normal number of 16,000 workers in the mills are now employed.

SOCIETY WOMAN THROWN IN POOL

New Quake Causes Tokio Panic

REVELLERS THROW HER IN POOL

Hectic Party Reason Why Mrs. Raymond T. Baker Wants to Sell Her Lenox Estate

Lenox, Nov. 23.—Holmwood, the beautiful estate of Mrs. Raymond T. Baker, is for sale—and all because of a costume ball when society took to the swimming pool. Mrs. Baker says she hasn't spent a happy moment in the house since.

Much mystery has surrounded the affair, but now the facts are out. Mrs. James McViker, who went as a gypsy maid, was thrown, head first, into the swimming pool, and she hasn't been the same woman since.

Sidney Colford, Jr., was the man who threw her, and Sidney lost considerable social prestige through his indiscretion. In fact, Mrs. Baker crossed him right straight off her invitation list, and vowed he would never enter her house again.

It was a lively whirlwind wedding affair for Colford married the divorced wife of Ewart Vanderbilt, and Mrs. Baker, long before she remarried her present husband, was the wife of Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt who went down with the Lusitania.

CUTS HIM DEAD

Cathleen Vanderbilt, who has always been a great favorite of Mrs. Baker, is step-daughter of Mr. Colford. Cathleen is the girl who recently married Henry C. Cushing, id, at one of the smartest weddings ever staged. As a result of the row at Holmwood, Cathleen, who bought her step-father altogether too old to act so childish, is said to have cut him dead.

Mrs. McViker, who is the divorced wife of the famous Jack Horner, is a sister of Mrs. Baker. In her day she vied with the belles of Baltimore, but now she is not as young as she used to be, and being Queen crowned like a schoolgirl is not at all to her liking. It was a sub-deb stunt, and it made Mrs. McViker quite rheumatic.

There was considerable drinking at the party—wine and champagne, and fancy cocktails. They must have gone to Mr. Colford's head. He was assisted by another man, whose name has not been revealed. Be-

THOUSANDS RUSH TO STREETS

Small Buildings Damaged; Another Shock Predicted for Tomorrow

Tokio, Nov. 23 (I.N.S.).—The most severe earthquake since the disastrous tremblers of September, shook Tokio about 11:30 this morning, causing considerable excitement in the city.

Some small buildings were slightly damaged.

The streets were filled within a few minutes with frightened Japanese and foreigners.

Reports emanating from the Mo-tokyo religious sect prophesying that another disastrous earthquake is coming tomorrow added generally to the apprehension of the populace, despite the reassuring statements of Dr. Nakamura, head of the Central Meteorological Bureau.

Dr. Nakamura declared positively that no more great earthquakes such as those which razed this city and Yokohama may be expected at this time.

GIRL BREAKS LEG; CRAWLS HOME

Mary Fleming, twelve years old, of No. 15 Cowles street, Somerville, fell downstairs and fractured her leg today at the Southern Junior High School on Vinal avenue. With her leg swinging and dragging herself home over the snow hill to Highland avenue, a mile away.

Her parents, amazed at the strength she had shown, took her to Somerville Hospital. As she lay in bed, her leg swathed in bandages she said:

"I don't know how I ever got home. It took me just one hour and a half."

KING TO DEMAND U. S. QUIT PHILIPPINES

Washington, Nov. 23.—American withdrawal from the Philippines will be proposed in a resolution which Senator King, Democrat, Utah, said today he will introduce immediately after the convening of the Senate.

LYNN GIRL ONE OF BIGAMIST'S THREE WIVES

A pretty Lynn girl is one of the three wives which George L. Anderson, professional prizefighter, took to his heart without the formality of divorce. She is Miss Eleanor Holland.

Anderson, arrested in South Glens Falls, N. Y., on a charge of bigamy, was taken to the home of wife No. 3 and fled through an open window. He is now believed to be on his way to Canada while the New York state police are scratching their heads and wondering what it is all about.

Anderson, authorities say, married Viola Kessner at Plattsburg, in 1921. Last June he married the Holland girl. The wedding took place in Keene, N. H. Miss Holland had formerly attended Normal School at Lake Placid. She gave several towns as her home. One was Poultney, Vt. Another was Keene, N. H. She left school when an aunt died leaving her $8,000.

Six weeks after the marriage to Miss Holland the police say Anderson married Ruth Harrington of South Glens Falls, N. Y. It was from her home that he fled from the police. Miss Holland's father lives in Lynn.

LIVINGSTON NOT SON OF WOMAN WRESTLER

Through error the American, in today's early editions, carried a story stating that Samuel Livingston of South Sudbury, a son of Cora Livingston, famous woman wrestler, was arrested in Main street, Marlboro, charged with peddling moonshine. Cora Livingston, or Mrs. Paul Bowser, as she is known in private life, has no son. The Livingston arrested was held in $500 bail for trial later.

SOCIETY WOMAN THROWN INTO WATER

them they grabbed Mrs. McVike and rushed her the length of the gymnasium, where to ball was held.

"One, two, three!" they yelled, "and in she goes!"

There was a thunderous splash. Then to the top of the water the trio came. Mrs. McVicker's tambourine floated to one side and her turban to another. Colford lost his gay blue sash and his silver-buckled pumps. Mrs. McVicker screamed and floundered.

"One, two, three!" yelled the men. 'One, two, three—and OUT she goes!"

MRS. BAKES FURIOUS

Then up in the air they tossed her. Mrs. McVicker became hysterical and one of the guests fainted. Some one carried Mrs. McVicker, dripping wet and shivering upstairs. And they got smelling salts and a little drink of whiskey, for the unconscious one.

Mrs. Baker was furious. Shaking with righteous indignation, she turned to Colford.

"How dare you!" shes creamed. "You've ruined my party and disgraced my sister. To say nothing of blasting your own social aspirations." (Colford had never been really established in society until shortly before Mrs. Bake's party, his first wife divorced him, and a month later, he married Mrs. Reggie Vanderbilt.)

He was very angry, however, when his hostess sought to humiliate him before all her guests.

"Shut up, Margaret," hes bouted, "or you'll get the same."

Then teh party broke up. But the memory of it lingers, and all through the Berkshires nt is being gossiped today.

The same night Rev. Latta Griswald, rector of Trinity Church, was accosted by an intoxicated merry-maker. Rev. Mr. Griswald does not dance and hesitated about attending the party. Disliking, however, to offend his lovely parishioner, he accepted her invitation and attended, not in costume but in his clerical best. When revelry was at its height a youth grabbed him by the shoulder.

SURPRISES RECTOR

"What th' hell!" demanded te intoxicated one. "What tha hell didja wear that for? Whazza big idea? This isbn't no goody-goody party. Pella hadn't oughta come like a dam parson. Change costume and shake a wicked leg."

Up fluttered Mrs. Baker, all apologies an tears. All in al, it was a tragic ball, and no one wonders Mrs. Baker has never enjoyed the place since.

Everyone feels sorry for Holmwood's lovely mistress. For years Lenox has known and loved her. When she first came here she was the Madcap Millionairess, blithe and irresponsible. Now she is the saddest figure in the Berkshires. She cloaks her sorrow with artificial gaiety, but everybody knows it is only a gallant pose.

It is no secret that the Bakers have never been happy at Holmwood. They have quarreled so frequently society is not surprised that Mrs. Baker wishes to quit the beautiful home where her dreams all vanished in air.

Because of their little daughter, Gloria, she will probably not divorce her husband. It is doubtful if there will be even a legal separation.

HATES SOCIETY

Incompatibility, according to friends of the couple, is Baker's only sin. He hates society. His beautiful wife loves it. They have neither friends nor interests in common. Baker was in Lenox several days following the great christening party of baby Gloria three years ago, but since then he has visited his wife's estate only once or twice in a Summer.

Mrs. Baker was married first to Dr. Hollis McKim, whom she divorced on grounds of cruelty and drunkenness.

Then along came Raymond T. Baker, director of the U. S. Mint and ex-warden of the Nevada State Penitentiary. He had loved Mrs. Vanderbilt for years. He had, in fact, wooed her following her divorce from McKim. In June 1918 they were married, and came to Holmwood on their honeymoon.

Holmwood was bequeathed Mrs. Baker by her late husband, and is the most beautiful estate in America. Only last Spring she spent $100,000 on a little addition, which makes the place almost as big as a hotel. In the library are 10,000 books, and paintings worth a fortune.

The stables alone cost $75,000 and house the largest collection of horse-drawn vehicles in America, including the famous coach Mr. Vanderbilt drove for seven years between London and Brighton.

About the place are six miles of drives, winding between rows of pines, over lagoons and along tiny lakes. Down the fir-flanked avenue is the great gymnasium, 100 feet long and fifty feet wide, where the celebrated costume party was held.

"They Go Like Lightning"

That's the other name for Nestor Johnson's

There's about as much difference between skating on Nestor Johnson's and other skates as there is between riding in an airplane or on a bicycle. You just cut the air. You swoop and glide without the least effort—soar along, and leave 'em all behind. Why? Because Nestor Johnson's are the skates of champions. Their tubular-braced runners are as true as a die. Their bell-like heel and sole plates and their specially made shoes give your feet the kind of support that makes you sure of yourself. What's the use of taking a "just as good" when you can get Nestor Johnson's? Look for them at your dealer's.

...N TO BLOCK ELECTION OF GILLETT

Washington, Nov. 23 (I.N.S.)—The strategic plans of the Progressive group in the House of Representatives for their forthcoming fight with the regular Republican organization, will be drawn up at a conference here next week in advance of the Republican caucus.

Representative Gilbert

Representative John M. Nelson of Wisconsin confirmed reports that the organization of the House for business will be blocked until concessions have been made to the Progressives through a support of Representative Henry Allen Cooper of Wisconsin for Speaker.

This is expected to prevent Speaker Gillett from getting a majority vote of the members necessary to his reelection. Outstanding demand of the progressives are changes in the house rules to allow votes on passage of all legislation reported from committees; denial to the house rules committee of arbitrary selective discretion in advancing legislation for house action; representation by the progressives on all important committees.

STUDENT WINS PEACE PRIZE

Clarence R. Athearn of the School of Religious Education, Boston University, won first award in an international essay contest on a plan for world peace, conducted by the American School Peace League, it was announced today.

Miss Mildred P. Ellis of the State Normal School, Bridgewater, received honorable mention. Five thousand students from twelve countries competed.

Second prize went to Miss Mary E. Barnette of the University of Chicago and third to Miss Florence M. Lore of the Jamaica Training School, Long Island.

The winning essay proposed a world educational body, working with the committee on intellectual co-operation of the League of Nations. Last year Paris and Oxford students won the honors.

RECORD BALLOT FOR BRITISH ELECTION

London, Nov. 23.—Political writers are predicting a record number of candidates at the election on December 6. Estimates vary, the highest being 1,450 or thirty more than at the last election.

The Conservatives, it is expected will number close to 550, the Liberals 460, Labor 420 and Independents about 30.

One of the most striking features is the large number of very young men who are candidates. The Liberals have the youngest, Reginald Ralt, 21, opposing the Hon. Esmond Harmsworth, 25, in the Isle of Thanet division of Kent. Lord Balniel, 23, heir of the Earl of Crawford, is the Conservative candidate in Wigan.

In the Conservative list, among those under 30 years are: Sir V. Warrender, 24; the Hon. C. Rhys, 24; Captain V. Cazalet, 28; Lord Erskine, 28; Lord Apsley, 28; Lord Harrington, 28; Captain H. MacMillan, 29; and Lord Stanley, 29. The Liberal roster of "youngsters" includes the 25-year-old son of Sir Alfred Mond, the present member for Swansea, west and Major Lloyd George, who is 24.

According to the Daily Sketch, since Prime Minister Baldwin announced the protection policy, many foreign manufacturers have been negotiating for vacant factory buildings.

'ANGEL CHILD' GIVEN HOPE BY SPECIALISTS

Camden, N. J., Nov. 23.—New York specialists who examined little Helen Hamilton, Camden's "angel child," who is dying of heart rupture, joined local physicians today in declaring that the child had a chance for life. They ordered that the greatest bedside vigilance be observed, and that no one be permitted to visit Helen except her mother and Mrs. May Schock, who housed the child when she was evicted.

The physicians marveled that she was still alive and attributed it solely to her great determination to last until her thirteenth birthday, which comes Monday.

Meanwhile, Helen is one more day nearer her goal. If she can celebrate her birthday she says she will be ready to die. When death does come, according to her local physician, it will not be violent. She will simply go off into slumber and never wake up.

WOMAN DROPS LAMP, BURNS TO DEATH

Suncook, N. H., Nov. 23.—Miss Mary St. Germain, fifty-nine, was found burned to death by firemen who had to force the doors of her house on Pine street.

Beside the body was found a kerosene lamp which started the fire. The woman was alone in the house at the time, preparing supper for her two sisters on their way home from work. Investigation revealed that she tripped over a carpet while carrying the lamp through the house.

Harvard and Hale House Dances Hold the Interest of Society Tonight, Betty Alden Reports

By BETTY ALDEN.

FOR those who accomplish much of their exercise while the saxophones whine, the evening promises to be a busy one.

Out Cambridge way there's the dance at the Harvard Union, while the Hale House ball—an important annual event—will draw the usual large throng to the Copley-Plaza.

Tommy Prince Beal, who captured such a pretty bride in the former May Morgan of New York, heads the committee in charge of the latter event. Assisting him are Mr. and Mrs. Howard A. Coonley, Mrs. Robert A. Leeson, Miss Gertrude Taylor, as well as Messrs. William G. Perry and Alexander Wirsor.

Among the patronesses for the ball in aid of Hale House are Mesdames Arthur L. Richmond, Gelston T. King, Robert G. Shaw, 2d, Ernest W. Bowditch, Theodore L. Storer, Robert F. Herrick, Jr., Richard Saltonstall, James A. Tucker, Alexander Wirsor and a score of others.

Mrs. G. T. King

Many of the debutantes and their cavaliers will, of course, take in both of tonight's affairs. The business of going on from one dance to another, and sometimes back to the first, seems to add considerable zest to the evening's—and wee sma' hours—entertainment.

THE Hobart Endicott Warrens have, I believe, closed their home at Beverly Farms and will spend the cold season as usual at Palm Beach, where they are among the most prominent members of the Boston colony and entertain extensively.

Their daughter, Miss Lucia Warren, is quite clever with the pencil and has studied at the Boston Museum School of Fine Arts.

MRS. ARTHUR L. RICHMOND

Mrs. Richmond (Jessie Means) is one of the patronesses for the Hale House ball taking place tonight at the Copley-Plaza.

MR. AND MRS. ALFRED Douglass (Louisa Weld), whose marriage a week ago out Chestnut Hill way was one of the most fashionable nuptial events of the season, are to make their home in Brookline at No. 12 Boulevard terrace.

The bride, a daughter of the A. Winsor Welds of Chestnut Hill, dispensed with the conventional robe of white satin and selected instead rich, lustrous silver and lace for her wedding gown.

I NOTE that Mrs. William Phillips (Caroline Drayton), wife of the Under Secretary of State, was of those sponsoring a series of smart subscription dances, the first of which was held the other night in Washington at the Hotel Hamilton.

Another patroness was Mrs. Joseph Leiter of Washington and Beverly Farms. The Phillips family—they have five children—made a long season of it at "High-over," their place at North Beverly. Mr. Phillips came up from the capital whenever his duties would permit.

APROPOS of dances nearer home, the first of the senior supper dances will be held on December 14 at the Copley-Plaza.

PORK PRICE DOWN 50 PER CENT. IN 2 MONTHS

Washington, Nov. 23.—Chicago wholesale prices of fresh pork loins, from which come roast pork and pork chops, have declined 50 per cent. since mid-September and are now 10 per cent. below quotations at this time in 1913, it was announced by the Institute of American meat packers. The decline, which it is declared is apparent in retail prices also, is attributed to increased supplies of hogs at twenty leading markets.

Milton, Vt., Nov. 23.—A son, the eighteenth child, has been born to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Murray of this town. They have fifteen children living.

PARENTS MUST SHARE 'MOST STOLEN' BABY

A blonde baby, whose seven years of life have been torn and troubled by the constant quarreling of her father and mother and who at four had gained the reputation of being the "most kidnaped child in the world," will at last have a peaceful life, by order of Judge John Leggatt of the Middlesex Probate Court.

Constance Southworth.

The child is Constance Southworth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merton K. Southworth of Everett. The little girl cannot remember when her father and mother have been happy together and during her mother's divorce suit she testified to that effect.

First she wanted her father and then she wanted her mother. The divorce case, because of the part she played, was one of the most remarkable of the Fall term of court.

In making his decision Judge Leggatt granted the custody of the child to each parent for periods of three months each. The daughter will be in the custody of the mother until February 24, 1924. It will then be turned over to the father for a three months period.

While the child is in the custody of the mother, Southworth will have to pay his wife $8 per week towards her support.

The divorce libel of Mrs. Southworth was not granted. It will remain on the docket for another year when Mrs. Southworth may ask for another hearing.

PRAISES STAND OF BISHOP LAWRENCE

"The repudiation by Bishop Lawrence of the things which he once believed is the greatest, the bravest and most significant achievement on the part of a bishop in the history of the Episcopal Church."

Bishop Lawrence

The Rev. Albert C. Dieffenbach, D. D., Unitarian minister, ment before members of his denomination at No. 16 Beacon street.

Dr. Dieffenbach believes that a new church is coming which will continue all the enriching traditions of Christian history.

"They do not dare to try Bishop Lawrence for heresy for in that case more than one hundred and fifty clergymen in his diocese would be felled by the same ecclesiastical axe," maintains this clergyman.

BOY FREED, MOTHER CONVICTED IN SLAYING

Dauphin, Manitoba, Nov. 23.—After deliberating five hours a jury returned a verdict of not guilty against Peter Sawicki, twelve, and another verdict of guilty of manslaughter, with a strong recommendation for mercy, against his mother, Mrs. Paul Sawicki. They were tried jointly for shooting Mrs. Anna Sunka on September 10. The killing of Mrs. Sunka was alleged to have been the aftermath of a quarrel over cattle.

80,000 CARLOADS OF GRAPES THIS YEAR

Chicago, Nov. 23.—Federal statistics show the 1923 grape crop as the largest in the history of the country, 80,000 carloads in 1923, compared with 37,000 cars in 1921. In 1921 4,700 cars of grapes were shipped into Chicago, 8,900 in 1922 and the estimate for 1923 was placed at 12,500. In 1923 fifty cars or 150,000 gallons of commercial grape juice was sold in Chicago.

Can't Stop Joint-Ease

"You can't stop people from buying Joint-Ease for sore throat and cold in chest," writes one of our druggist friends. "They say it's the best ever."

We know that, of course, but please remember that Joint-Ease is for stiff, swollen, painful joints, whether rheumatic or not, and its tremendous sale for that purpose proves that it is the one joint remedy that gets the most satisfying results.

A tube costs 60 cents at druggists everywhere. Just rub it on and in a few seconds it disappears completely under the skin, and relief follows instantly.

Misses' all-wool bolivia coat, $35

Misses' all-wool bolivia coats $35

"Bolivia" may mean so many things! It may mean that stiff, rather "scratchy" fabric which you've no doubt seen in many low-priced coats. But in these coats it means a soft fabric—all wool, and cut in a close, even weave which makes it deep and shadowy like velvet.

Hand-finished and tailored so that shoulders and collars "set" right. Navy, brown, taupe, black, $35.

Other misses' inexpensive coats, $16.75 to $35.

12 OF 13 CHILDREN GONE, MOTHER JUMPS TO DEATH

Holyoke, Nov. 22.—Grief-stricken because death snatched all but one of her thirteen children, Mrs. Alma Paul, forty, ended her life. She plunged from a third-story window of her home at No. 18 Cabot street.

The woman's body was found crumpled in a heap in the rear yard by neighbors. In the room from which she jumped they found all the gas jets turned on.

She had been despondent since the death of a son, her twelfth child to be borne to the cemetery, only recently. Her sole remaining child, a son, lived with her and his father.

JEW MURDERS IN ERIN LAID TO FEUDS

By DENNIS O'CONNELL

Dublin, Nov. 23 (Universal Cable).—Minister of Home Affairs Kevin O'Higgins declared in the Dail that it is his belief that the recent murders of Jews in Ireland were "private vengeance rather than sectarian crime."

Kevin O'Higgins

He declared that if there is anyone of any class or creed with reason to believe they are specially menaced, adequate protection will be afforded them.

"I feel sure that I am voicing the view of the country in declaring that the persecution of any religious community is abhorrent and detestable.

"The Jewish community has never been persecuted in Ireland. An investigation of the recent outrages is energetically proceeding."

WORLD LABOR OFFICE NAMES ENVOY TO U. S.

Geneva, Nov. 23.—Closer collaboration between American Labor and Industrial interests on the one hand, and the International Labor Office of Geneva on the other, is expected through an extension of the work of the Washington Branch of Labor office, establishment of which has just been decided upon.

The Labor office announces many requests for information are reaching here from American organizations, hence the governing board has decided to appoint one of its leading experts, L. Magnusson, as its representative in Washington.

Before joining the staff here as English editor of the International Labor Review, Mr. Magnusson spent ten years in the bureau of labor statistics at Washington as a special agent for field and research work.

DEATH BREAKS CLASS UNITY OF 46 YEARS

New York, Nov. 23.—The recent death of Dr. L. H. Nash in South Norwalk, Ct., has broken what is believed to be a record for class unity in American colleges—forty-six years. MALDEN CHURCH IS SPLIT BY K. K. K. LETTER

When Rev. Dr. John F. Dobbs, pastor of the First Church of Malden, advocated setting the Ku Klux Klan on the trail of hooch vendors he started something.

Even the congregation of the Rev. Dr. Dobbs' church is torn by conflicting emotions. Its members dislike disloyalty to their pastor. They dislike his attitude in wishing the Klan on them as law enforcers more.

The suggestion was made by Dr. Dobbs in a communication to a Malden newspaper. It was published.

Then the storm broke. It was practically a storm of disapproval.

Malden people have little use for hooch dispensers or manufacturers. They evidently have less for the hooded night riders.

While his own church members do not condemn openly, neither do they approve action upon his advice or his course in issuing it.

PASTOR'S LETTER.

Dr. Dobbs' letter follows:

"HIRE THE KU KLUX KLAN."

"The salesman from the North was standing on the corner of the street in a city of the South, and commented upon the industry of the man sweeping the street, some half a block distant. His companion laughed and said, 'Do you know, that man was a wifebeater, a drunken, lazy sot, who would never do a stitch of work. We stood it as long as we could and since there was no way to get the law on him the klan called upon him one night and explained matters, telling him there was a good job waiting for him at City Hall the next morning. He came all right, and he works now.'

"It was a mighty hot day, but the cloud of dust that that industrious sweeper was kicking up was an indication of his complete conversion.

SCOFF AT INQUIRIES.

"If men carry liquor to their places of business in satchels, past the policeman on the street, and laugh as they answer the question put to them by someone who knows, 'Oh, I have some good stuff today,' and if the 'hide-and-go-seek' game with officers and detectives is so unfruitful of results, that our boys can sit in the cars they drive, while the owner goes in and gets his booze and comes out to his car to drink it; and we cannot get convictions in the usual way, I suggest that we turn the situation over to the Ku Klux Klan. I think about a dozen or two of the hooded knights could clean up this town for us in a few days. Perhaps they would not require more than their traveling expenses, and would look upon the job as a pleasure trip.

(Signed) JOHN F. DOBBS.

Though the tenor of his letter is taken by some to indicate an affiliation of general sympathy with the Klan, Dr. Dobbs denies that he is a member of the shrouded monarchy. However, he believes that hooch manufacturers and dealers, should be driven from their haunts and forced to continue their activities somewhere else if they must continue.

Dr. Dobbs holds that Malden has more than its share of the moonshine fraternity and insists that proper co-operation between city and federal officers is not apparent to the naked eye. He even implies that police officers of Malden, in some cases are not working overtime on the hooch trail.

Intentions Filed, But Groom Denies He Wants to Wed

Who filed marriage intentions of Mrs. A. C. Walsh, divorcee, of No. 72 Gulnan street, Waltham, and William T. Sheehan, a boarder at her home, in Providence City Hall?

William T. Sheehan denies that he had anything to do with the matter or that there is any truth in the report that he was to marry Mrs. Walsh.

Mrs. Mary Small, mother of Mrs. Walsh, who lives with her daughter, denied that her daughter filed intentions, although she admitted the latter recently went to Providence on a visit.

Mrs. Walsh could not be reached.

STRESEMANN IN CHALLENGE TO REICHSTAG

to have a decisive bearing on the attitude of those parties in the present situation towards the Stresemann government.

The Communists were especially furious, and angry scenes were enacted in the Reichstag over General Von Seeckt's sudden and drastic measure.

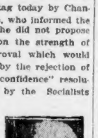
Stresemann Defies Reichstag Vote

Berlin, Nov. 23 (AP).—An unequivocal vote of confidence was demanded of the Reichstag today by Chancellor Stresemann, who informed the Legislature that he did not propose to retain office on the strength of the indirect approval which would be accorded him by the rejection of independent "no confidence" resolutions introduced by the Socialists and the German Nationalists.



Dr. Stresemann

Neither of these, he pointed out, would be able in the present situation to command the majority necessary to unseat him.

The government, asserted Dr. Stresemann, declined to be made the beneficiary of party tactics and would only continue in office upon being given a clearly defined vote of confidence.

The Chancellor's demand for a clean-cut vote revived the possibility of a military dictatorship headed by General Von Seeckt.

In the event of a vote of lack of confidence political opinion inclines to the assumption that President Ebert would decree a non-parliamentary form of government.

Hindenburg Deplores Ludendorff Revolt

Hanover, Ger., Nov. 23.—Field Marshal Von Hindenburg made public a manifesto deploring the recent disturbances in Munich, saying that in the troubles there "German brothers of equally patriotic minds became enemies and caused a divided community to the joy of our adversaries." The field marshal urges conciliation.

Field Marshal Von Hindenburg

"Join hands across the graves of those who fell on both sides in firm faith in their good cause," he says.

Germans in Paris Urge Moratorium

Paris, Nov. 23. (I.N.S.)—Ten German economic experts were given a two-hour hearing by the Inter-Allied Reparations Commission today.

It was the first opportunity given the Germans to explain their position, especially capacity for payments of indemnity.

It was understood that the Germans urged the necessity of a moratorium and an international loan.

Krupp and Directors Released From Prison

Berlin, Nov. 24—All the directors of the Krupp plant imprisoned last Spring on charges of resistance to the French growing out of the rioting at the Krupps on March 31, have been released, says a News Agency dispatch from Cologne.

The announcement from Cologne apparently represents another technical step in freeing the Krupp directors. The individuals affected are Baron Krupp von Bohlen and Directors Bruhn, Oesterlen and Hartwig. They were imprisoned May 8. They have been actually out of jail nearly a month, having been released on parole on October 25.

Two Killed, 2 Wounded, in New German Riots

Dusseldorf, Nov. 23.—One policeman was killed and two wounded during riotous demonstrations by the unemployed in Essen yesterday. One policeman lost his life in similar disorders at Rothausen, near Gelsenkirchen.

Considerable pillaging was carried out by the demonstrators, who were said to be planning to conduct manifestations of a like character in Bochum today.

Seattle.—Bishop Thomas F. Gailor, president of the National Council of the Episcopal Church in America, and Dr. John W. Wood, executive secretary of the department of missions, sailed for Tokio to help distribute the $500,000 emergency relief fund of the Episcopal Church.

IRISHMEN QUIT HUNGER STRIKE AFTER 42 DAYS

Dublin, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—It is expected in government quarters that all the hunger strikers will cease their abstention from food by tonight.

All the men prisoners in the Free State prisons and internment camps ceased their strike this morning, it was announced. A few women in the North Union internment camp are still holding out, but it was said they were considering the question of abandoning the strike.

Some of the men have been forty-two days without food.

ACT ON ALIENS TO REDUCE HARDSHIPS

Washington, Nov. 23.—The cases of immigrants detained at Ellis Island because they are in excess of quota limits will be reviewed individually, the Labor Department announced today, and extreme hardship will be avoided where it is possible under the law.

President Coolidge, to whom appeals had been addressed in behalf of the aliens, has referred the question to the department. Because of the searching review, which will be made in every case, decision on all of them probably will be delayed for several days.

Havana.—Resolutions against reelection of President Zayas and against a bill that would prevent the usual reorganization for next year's election were adopted by the National committee of the Liberal Party.

GIRL VICTIM OF OPERATION SUING PHYSICIAN FOR $20,000

The $20,000 suit of Miss Edith M. Thornberry, twenty-seven years old, Westland avenue, Back Bay, against Dr. H. W. Irving, prominent Back Bay specialist, alleging that an operation performed by him deprived her of the right to motherhood, will come up in court the early part of next week.

"All the money in the world can not recompense me for what Dr. Irving has done to me," declared Miss Thornberry on the eve of her suit.

"I went to Dr. Irving and he advised an operation for the removal of my appendix," declared the girl.

"I later went to three other physicians and learned the truth."

SHORN LAMBS' FRIEND STRANGELY MISSING

MRS. W. THATCHER HOLLIS

Wife of leather merchant vanished when her husband obtained a divorce. She first gained publicity by taking six unemployed men at the "slaves auction" held by "Mr. Zero" on Boston Common into her home.

BRANDER MATTHEWS SERIOUSLY SICK

New York, Nov. 23.—Dr. Brander Matthews, professor of literature at Columbia University and widely known literary authority, who is seriously ill, may be unable to resume his duties at the university, it was learned.

MRS. HOLLIS IS DIVORCED FOR INFIDELITY

The marital ties that bound W. Thatcher Hollis, wealthy South street leather merchant, and Mrs. Mary Ellsworth, society woman and Bohemian extraordinary, have been severed.

And with the discovery that Hollis secured a divorce quietly at Lowell on the grounds of infidelity, came the revelation that the former "ministering angel" to "Zero" Ledoux's "shorn lambs of labor" is mysteriously missing, and is being sought by the police for violation of her probation following her arrest here for passing worthless checks.

Efforts of the police to locate her have thus far failed and her most intimate friends disclaim knowledge of her whereabouts. Her trail, followed by detectives, led to a North End cafe where she was one of a party of four women, and there abruptly was lost.

Another clew that appears to be "hot" was furnished the police by the Chicago authorities who reported that a woman giving the name of "Miss Mary Ellsworth," has been passing forged checks in banks in that city. "Miss Mary Ellsworth" was the name Mrs. Hollis used when she passed her worthless checks on several Boston department stores in exchange for goods.

Mrs. Hollis first gained publicity when she lent her aid to the cause of "Zero" Ledoux, friend of the jobless, who created a sensation in 1921 when he "sold" unemployed men "slaves" on Boston Common.

Mrs. Hollis went as far as to adopt six of the "slaves" and install them in her palatial mansion in Newton. This action caused her husband to attempt to have her committed to the Psycopathic Hospital for observation. The wife was released when a physician testified in court that she was sane.

BIG CHURCH BUILDING TO REPLACE RECTORY

WOMAN ROBBED OF FUR COAT ON STREET

Mrs. Florence Storey, No. 121 Boylston street, Brookline, was beaten and stamped on by three men and a girl in front of No. 99 Norway street, Back Bay, stripped of her fur coat and left unconscious.

Margaret Husher, twenty-two, No. 997 Albany street, South End, and George Gilbert, twenty-six, No. 78 Regent street, Roxbury, are under arrest, charged with assault and battery and larceny.

Police recovered the coat.

Mrs. Storey, a young wife of twenty-five years, gave her name as Florence Edson to the police. She said today she did so because she did not wish her relatives to know she was visiting in the Back Bay without her husband. Later she told the police her correct name.

She is in bed with a large bruise on her right arm, several large bruises on her left arm, a broken rib, a scalp wound and possible internal injuries.

"Three of us girls were walking through Norway street when three men rushed out from between the buildings and hit me," said Mrs. Storey. "I fought. My girl friends tried to help me. A girl appeared and helped the men.

"'Get the fur coat,' someone cried. They even bit my fingers to gain what they wanted. I fainted. When I came to, the coat was gone."

Mrs. Storey said she was unable to explain why she was picked as the victim of an assault. Gilbert and his girl companion, she said, was known by one of her party and the arrests resulted.

In Roxbury Court today Gilbert and Margaret Husher pleaded not guilty to the charges of assault and larceny. Their cases were continued to Nov. 28.

ACCUSE HERRICK OF INSTIGATING WILLETT SUITS

Legal sparring between Attorney Sherman Whipple, counsel for Willett, Sears & Co. and Attorney George L. Mayberry and his associates for the Boston bankers who are being sued for $15,000, marked the trial in Superior Court at Dedham today.

George F. Willett of Norwood was on the stand for his tenth day as chief witness for the plaintiffs.

Attorney Whipple was trying to put in evidence tending to show that a series of suits brought against Willett, Sears & Co. and Willett as president of the Norwood Housing Association, through the law firm of White & Barnes, were instigated by Robert F. Herrick and other defendants who had secured control of the Willett companies.

Counsel for the defence objected to Attorney Whipple's line of questioning and were sustained by the court in many instances.

The witness testified that when the suit was brought against the Norwood Housing Association its assets were value at between $1,000,000 and $1,200,000, while its liabilities were approximately $900,000. He said that the defendants were acquainted with the financial condition of the association and knew it would eventually pay a handsome profit. He had previously talked with Daniel G. Wing, president of the First National Bank which held $30,000 worth of the association's paper, and with S. H. Fessenden both of whom expressed a favorable opinion of the project.

CRIMINAL CASE FACING STOKES 'UP TO COURTS,' ASSERTS WIFE

New York, Nov. 23 (I.N.S.)—Criminal prosecution of Wm. E. D. Stokes, millionaire, who has settled [illegible] upon his young wife, Helen Lowell Stokes, and granted her an [illegible] separation, with full custody of the couples' two children, remained uncertain today. Mrs. Stokes, who will remain in [illegible] New York until Monday, denied telegraphing Chicago authorities to "push the criminal prosecution."

"That is a matter in the hands of the State's attorney," Mrs. Stokes said. "I can neither push nor stop prosecution, nor can I suggest anything."

WOMAN, 87, WRAPS BODY IN PAPER; SETS SELF ON FIRE

Newark, N. J., Nov. 23.—Mrs. Mary Moore, 87 years old, who failed two weeks ago in an attempt to end her life by hanging at her home in Nutley, was found burned to death today on the second story porch of her son, Rev. Frank L. Moore.

It is believed the aged woman wrapped newspapers about her body, soaked them with gasoline and then applied a flame. A box of matches was found near the body.

ELKS' MEMORIAL SERVICE TO BE HELD DEC. 2

Boston Lodge of Elks will hold its annual Memorial services on Sunday Dec. 2, at Loew's State Theatre, Massachusetts avenue. George E. Curran, chairman of the committee, has arranged a splendid program. A feature will be the appearance of the vested choir of men and boys from St. Paul's Catholic church, Dorchester.

This choir of 45 men and boys, organized and trained in preparation for the opening of the beautiful new Gothic Church of St. Paul, the Rev. John J. Farrell, rector, will be heard in three selections.

The first will be the "Benedictus" from the "Messe Solennelle" of Gounod, the second "Ela Mater" from Dvorak's "Stabet Mater" and the third "All ye who weep," by Faure, this last for baritone solo and chorus, in which number St. Paul's Choir will have as assisting soloist, Edward H. Sullivan, Basso Cantante, now director at St. Mark's. The soprano soloists are Masters Frederick Wall and Charles Acker.

Many artists of international reputation have volunteered their services and their names and programmes will be announced later.

The memorial services will start promptly at 11 a. m. The Loew's State Theatre management (Joseph Brennan, resident manager) have donated the use of the theatre gratis for this auspicious occasion.

LEGION SCORES BILL FOR NEW STATE BONUS

Representative John H. Logue, a South End undertaker, brought Department Commander Edwards of the American Legion into immediate action when he filed a bill calling for the payment of another $100 bonus to all Massachusetts World War veterans.

Within an hour after the bill had been filed, Commander Edwards had learned of it and "went up in the air." The executive committee of the State Department of the American Legion unanimously condemned the bill, declaring that Massachusetts had paid in full its debt to its soldiers.

The bill proposes to continue for another five years the $5 poll tax provided in the 1919 legislation which has just expired. The amount involved would be $20,000,000.

Logue introduced the bill independently, it is understood. Veteran legislators believe the bill will be killed as soon as the Legislature can get around to the job.

GLOUCESTER BOY SAW FATHER KILLED

Relatives of eighteen-year-old Owen Pothier of Gloucester, who was second mate on the American schooner Grace N. Pendleton, wrecked off Cuxhaven, Germany, are endeavoring to get word from him and have enlisted the aid of the State Department at Washington.

Young Pothier witnessed the death of his father, Captain Forman Pothier, who fell into the sea when the mast, which he had scaled for safety, collapsed. The heroic skipper sent his son and another man to safety over a life line.

DUKES RIVAL SUITORS FOR MRS. COREY

Dorchester Police Captain Beaten Up

MRS. COREY COURTED BY ROYALTY

Dukes Woo Steel King's Ex-Wife; Latter Ran Villa Like a "Musical Comedy"

Paris, Nov. 23.—Into the latest sensation of the hour, the Corey divorce, looms all the elements of fiction.

A pearl necklace, two dukes, a settlement of $1,000,000 and thieving servants and chauffeurs.

Also a chateau run in musical comedy fashion by its musical comedy mistress.

Mabel Gilman Corey has secured a divorce from her millionaire steel husband, William Ellis Corey. Almost twenty years ago he cast aside the wife who had helped make him plain Laura Cook, and married Mabie.

CAST OFF FIRST WIFE.

Mabie was a show girl. She played in "The Dancing Girl," then the "Mocking Bird."

Corey was introduced to her one night when the company was playing Pittsburgh. The millionaire had grown cold toward his wife, Laura Cook, who married him when he was a poor steel worker in the mills, making $40 a month, and who had helped him in his struggle to educate himself for business and to rise to power in the street corporation.

Seeing Miss Gilman on the stage, Corey became infatuated and obtained an introduction without difficulty. Soon afterward he established a New York residence.

As in the case of James Stillman and Flo Leeds and again in the case of John Kearsley Mitchell and Dottie King years afterward, the word soon circulated along Broadway that a showgirl had "made" a married millionaire.

WELCOMED BY ROYALTY.

Corey was so deeply smitten that he even thought Miss Gilman's voice might be trained to the fineness of grand opera and sent her here where she studied under Jean de Reszke.

He also came to Paris and visited her, meantime negotiating for a divorce which Mrs. Corey finally agreed to obtain, although protesting that she still loved him. He settled $1,000,000 on her and made liberal provision for their children.

So, in 1907, Corey married his showgirl in New York.

Then they began an assault on the firm front doors of the austere homes of the "400" along Fifth and Park

Rebuffed, Corey and his new wife came to Paris, where, among the impecunious nobles of the old royalist regime and the non-working sons and daughters of royalty and nobility, their money made them welcome.

Corey presented his new wife with a magnificent villa near Paris where their entertainments were the most lavish of a time when newly-rich American millionaires were trying to out-spend one another.

Corey was finally forced from the presidency of the United States Steel Corporation and his removal was attributed in part to his matrimonial record.

Mrs. Corey turned her Paris villa into a hospital during the war and served, herself, as a nurse. They have a New York home which she occupied when last in America.

DUKES ON HER TRAIL.

Mrs. Corey recently left her chateau at Villegenis and moved to Paris. Rumors that she was seeking a divorce first became current last Summer, when the former actress lost a pearl necklace which she valued at 2,000,000 francs. The necklace was lost on a trip to London and it transpired, at the time, that two Italian dukes had accompanied the American woman to her train when she departed for her trip across the channel.

Suspicion rapidly centred on the servants and was divided between the housekeeper and the chauffeur. The chauffeur then confessed and said he had taken the pearls from the case while it was in the car.

STEEL KING WHO OUSTED WIFE DEALT SAME FATE

EX-ACTRESS WHO CHARGES DESERTION

GYPSIES KIDNAP R. I. BOY

Police Seek Arthur Budlong, 4, Last Seen Near Gaily Painted Car

Norwood, R. I., Nov. 23—Two days ago a band of gypsies from the Far West rolled into Norwood in a brightly painted automobile and stopped on Bundlong avenue.

Some of the gypsies went to near by stores to buy provisions; others remained in the automobile.

Little Arthur Budlong, four, walked out of his yard at No. 53 Bundlong Avenue, attracted by the brightly painted automobile and its quaintly costumed occupants.

The gypsy car has gone. It didn't remain in town more than a quarter of an hour.

DESCRIPTION BROADCAST.

James Budlong, Arthur's father, convinced his son was kidnaped sent hurried calls to the Norwood police. Police in other Rhode Island cities quickly received word.

Descriptions of the boy and of the automobile were broadcasted, and a cordon of State, county and city officials and their deputies was quickly thrown across the roads leading from the State.

But the gypsy automobile has not been seen since Arthur disappeared.

HAD SEVERAL REGISTRATIONS.

Arthur is good humored and is not shy in the presence of strangers. When he left his home he wore a grap cap and overcoat and tan shoes and stockings.

The gypsy car bore the registration plates of several States. Painted on its hood and sides were the names of cities throughout the United States, with especial prominence given to California, Arizona and New Mexico.

No one thought to note the registration numbers on any of the numerous license places. Police do not know even the make of the automobile.

Bishop Sherwood Dead

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 23.—Right Rev. Granvill Hudson Sherwood, Bishop of the Springfield Diocese of the Episcopal Church, died suddenly here.

2 COPS ALSO WORSTED IN FIGHT

Drink-Crazed Leo Killian Is Finally Subdued by Squad From Fields Corner

Frank Killian, No. 37 Kimball street, Dorchester, is being sought for breaking a policeman's jaw.

News that Frank is being sought disclosed the fact that his twenty two-year-old brother, Leo, of the same address, had beaten up a police captain and two patrolmen.

Frank attacked Patrolman Thomas E. McMurray of the Fields Corner police station, knocked him to the ground and broke his jaw when the latter tried to arrest Francis J. Cullilay of Westville street, Dorchester, for drunkenness.

SOUGHT BY POLICE.

McMurray made the arrest and Frank was haled into Dorchester Court and sentenced to serve six months. He appealed and defaulted when the case came up for trial in the Superior Court. He is still being sought by the police.

Capt. M. J. Bailey

At about the same time, Captain Matthew J. Bailey of the Fields Corner police station, making a tour of inspection of his district in an automobile, saw two of his men receiving a beating at the hands of Leo Killian on Orchard street, Dorchester. The policemen were Patrolmen Delaney and Worcester.

Before Captain Bailey could get out of his car, Killian had knocked the two patrolmen down several times.

Captain Bailey rushed into the fray, seized the prisoner, and ordered the patrolmen to send in a call for the patrol wagon and reserves.

Leo devoted his undivided attention to Captain Bailey. He was no respecter of rank. Captains and patrolmen were all the same to him. At the first blow Captain Bailey measured his length in the street only to return to the fight. The next time the Captain was knocked down Leo sat on him and pummelled his back.

Reserves arrived and took the prisoner in hand, but not before Leo had kicked Captain Bailey twice in the chin.

Stella Dallas

By OLIVE HIGGINS PROUTY

Author of "Bobbie, General Manager," "The Fifth Wheel," "The Star in the Window," Etc.

LAUREL was thirteen years old. Her hair was the color of ripe horse-chestnuts, and had the same gloss. She wore it in a long smooth bang in front, which reached nearly to her waist. Laurel's mother always placed one of the curls over each shoulder after she had made them perfect by brushing and smoothing over a dexterous forefinger. Laurel always, with a quiet, almost imperceptible, little motion of her head, placed them behind as soon as her mother turned away.

Laurel's clothes were consistent with the extreme bang and the long curls. There was never anything casual or careless about her costumes. When she appeared for breakfast in the big hotel dining room dressed in one of her violet ginghams, smocked in seal-brown, with seal-brown stockings, and seal brown shoes, and a seal-brown hat, she was like an Elsie DeWolfe room in the perfection of her color scheme.

She always changed for luncheon, as did her mother and most of the other smartly dressed women in the hotel, and again for dinner; and always the shoes and stockings, ribbons, hats, sweaters and what-not harmonized with her various linens, pastel-shaped Japanese crepes, organdies or hand-embroidered serges for cool days.

"That Dallas woman must spend about all her time over that child's clothes," Laurel had one day overheard from behind the high back of one of the hotel piazza rocking chairs.

Laurel was sitting by an open window in an empty card room just behind the chairs. Laurel liked to sit and listen to what the women talked about on the other side of that high cane wall of chairbacks. Sometimes, however, she heard things that made her grave, contemplative eyes still graver and still more contemplative. There had been scorn in the voice which had referred to her mother.

"I wonder," she thought, "if we didn't dress quite so well, people mightn't be nicer."

She waited for more enlightening remarks from behind the chairbacks, but none were forthcoming, so she rose, sauntered out of the card room, wandered down a long deserted corridor, drifted into the hotel foyer.

She was tall for thirteen, with long slim legs, long slim arms, and a long slim body. "Nice eyes, kiddie, but you'd make mighty poor eating," one of the habitues of the pool room had said to Laurel one day as she stood staring at the clicking balls on the bright green felt, and he had pinched one of Laurel's pipestem arms—bare from the elbow down, and brown now to her finger tips.

Laurel did have nice eyes. They were gray eyes, set well apart. They had long, well-defined brows—level, almost parallel to the straight bang above which nearly touched them. There was in Laurel's eyes a look of wistful inquiry, an almost spiritual expression sometimes. They were more than nice eyes. They were beautiful eyes. In contemplating them, one forgot her freckles. For Laurel had freckles. In spite of lemon juice every night—in spite of various concoctions, which so far had not disturbed the fine texture of her dark smooth skin, still she had freckles.

But beneath the freckles there was a glow, like the glow beneath the flecked tan of a russet apple. This, and the freckles, and the spiritual something in her eyes gave her a sort of woodsy charm, which no amount of garnishing could conceal. She was seldom seen on the floor of the hotel ballroom dancing with the other children. Usually she could be found standing somewhere by herself, quiet and composed, or sitting in a chair with a book.

Yet there was something about Laurel, standing or sitting, or walking slowly down the long length of the dining room behind her mother to their table in a far corner, that recalled certain pictures of young girls dancing in the woods

126 INDICTED IN BIG LIQUOR RUNNING RING SPLIT $50,000,000 PROFITS

DRY AGENTS PROTECTED BOOTLEGS

Smugglers Made Quick Fortunes Running Booze in Via Savannah River

Washington, Nov. 23 (I.N.S.)—The 126 persons implicated in the indictments returned by the Federal Grand Jury at Savannah, Ga., have distributed among themselves more than $50,000,000 in illicit liquor profits, officials of the Department of Justice said today.

The fortunes quickly made off smuggled liquors are shown partly by copies of the bootleg operators and by bank deposit books and other data which have fallen into the possession of special agents of the Department of Justice.

$1-000,000 IN RUM.

One of the ring leaders handled $10,0 0 000 worth of smuggled liquor from Panama, and other wet shipping points the past year. The distribution of this great stock of wet goods was made from Savannah by freight and express through main railroad routes to northern points.

Chief Burns, of the bureau of investigation today promised further startling disclosures, as the round-up of indicted defendants proceeded in a score of cities through the East and Middle west.

Liquor lawlessness gained great headway because until recently no successful effort was made by the government to stop smugglers and their financial backers in American coast cities, according to the Department of Justice.

OFFICIALS ACCUSED.

Involved in the Savannah indictments are numerous Federal dry agents who are alleged to have protected the liquor smuggling traffic through the Savannah gateway.

So secure were the Savannah operators in their belief of immunity from punishment that they openly defied special prosecutors who were sent out by the Department of Justice several weeks ago.

To what extent public officials and dry agents are mixed up in the "graft" charges will be known later as the inquiry is pushed and its complete report is filed.

WARSHIPS IN PERIL BY GALE AT NAPLES

Rome, Nov. 23.—A violent gale at Naples did some damage to the city and district along the coast nearby. The Spanish warships Jane, Primero and Alfonso XIII had their mooring ropes broken and were driven to sea. Italian tugs went to their assistance. An Italian squadron was forced to take refuge near Cape Miseno at the mouth of the Bay of Naples.

Dancer Freed

PATTI HARROLD.

Patti Harrold, twenty-two years old, musical comedy star, and daughter of Orville Harrold, tenor, obtained a divorce at Muncie, Ind., from her husband, Jack McElroy, a dancer. He did not appear to contest the case, which was held in chambers.

FILES ANSWER IN 'PAJAMA' CASE

Wallace F. Smith of West Roxbury, it is said, was surprised in the Hough's Neck bungalow of Chester A. Brigham, organist, at midnight by Brigham and a posse of detectives when Smith and Mrs. Brigham were found clad in pajamas, today filed in the Superior Court his answer to Brigham's suit for $10,000, alleging alienation.

The answer was filed through Attorney Edward P. Barry and consists of a general denial o fthe charge of alienation.

Brigham's suit for a divorce will come up in the Middlesex Probate Court shortly and will not be contested by Mrs. Helen Brigham, his wife.

Smith, son of Joseph F. Smith, the wealthy High street dyestuffs dealer, did not refer to the pajama party in his reply. It is said he will endeavor to show that Mrs. Brigham's affections were no longer centred on her husband before Smith knew her.

Paris.—A bill for an annuity of 40,000 francs for Madame Curie was presented to Parliament today in connection with the coming celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the discovery of radium.

TOLBERT QUITS AS MARSHAL IN BITTER ROW

Washington, Nov. 22.—President Coolidge today accepted the resignation of Joseph W. Tolbert as United States marshal for the western district of South Carolina, thereby ending one of the bitterest patronage controversies of recent years.

Tolbert, who is Republican national committeeman for South Carolina was appointed marshal by President Harding during the last session of Congress. Senator Dial, Democrat, of that state, preferred charges against him and he failed of confirmation. Afterward, however, Mr. Harding gave him a recess appointment.

At the same time Tolbert's resignation was presented and accepted at the White House today President Coolidge named the United States attorney for that district to a district judgeship, and then gave Tolbert a nephew, Joseph A. Tolbert, the district attorneyship thus vacated.

FRANCE TO ACT ALONE, SAYS POINCARE

Paris, Nov. 23 (I.N.S.).—"If France is assured tomorrow she will act alone without asking authorization from her allies," Premier Poincare declared in the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon.

France's self security policy is dictated by facts. First, the Anglo-American agreement, (for France's security) was never signed as a part supplement to the Versailles treaty. Secondly, the Anglo-French pact of Geneva proved unacceptable because Mr. Lloyd George refused to invoke military convention for reciprocal aid in case of future menace.

"But I will never give up the idea of a military convention with England."

AGED MAN CLUBBED TO DEATH; INVALID WIFE SEES CRIME

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 23.—Hennepin county authorities are looking for the masked intruders who strode into the home of Duane Chapel, 64, at Maple Plain and clubbed the aged man to death before the eyes of his horrified wife.

Chapel was killed while taking a nap on a couch. His invalid wife was helpless to aid him. For nearly three hours the woman remained in the house with the body, a nervous wreck, unable to leave her chair. The alarm was given by Guy Capel, 24, who returned from work to find the tragedy.

$7,500,000 JAP ELECTRICAL FIRM IS BACKED BY WESTINGHOUSE

Tokio, Nov. 23 (A.P.)—The Mitsubishi Electric Company with a capital of about $7,500,000 has been formed here to manufacture electrical machinery under patents of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company. The Westinghouse company has a considerable holding in the capital.

The new company is a branch of the great Mitsubishi banking organization. The Takata company, another large organization, which has been the Westinghouse agent here, will continue to import Westinghouse machinery.

GOLFER, HIT BY BALL, SUES; WRONG CLUB USED 'PRO' SAYS

New York, Nov. 23.—A jury of duffers was called upon today to settle a matter of golf etiquette.

John Harris, leaving the green on 133 yard hole at Rumson, N. J., was hit by the tee shot of Henry Coe, Jr. Harris sued for $10,000. The point the jury is to decide is whether Coe hit Harris before Harris was well out of range of any ordinary shot.

Coe used a jigger, the ball carrying over the green to Harris' head. William Green, professional, said Coe should have used a mashie or niblick. Howard Whitney, rules committeeman, United States Golf Association testified that Coe seemed within his rights in making the shot as Harris walked off the green.

25,000 MINERS IDLE FROM UNDERSELLING

St. Louis, Nov. 23.—Bituminous coal mines in Illinois and Indiana are closing down rapidly, coal operators here stated today. Approximately one third of the 200 mines in Illinois are idle and the majority of the remainder are operating at only about one fifth capacity. About 25,000 miners are out of work. Loss of business through alleged underselling by non-union mines in Kentucky and West, Virginia is given as the chief reason.

MAGNUS WANTS TO WORK HARD; INTRODUCED TO LODGE

Washington, Nov. 23—Senator Magnus Johnson, the Minnesota Farmer Laborite, wants to "work hard" in the next Congress, and he so informed Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, the Republican leader when they met today for the first time. Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah, performed the ceremony of introducing them.

Senator Johnson said he desired to be of service and to help in committee work as far as he was able. Senator Lodge then offered, on behalf of the Republican organization, to provide committee places from the Republican quota to Senator Johnson.

DANCE PARTIES TO BOOST XMAS BASKET FUND

Several entertainments of various kinds have been planned in behalf of the American's Helping Hand Christmas Basket Fund.

These affairs include a dancing party and cabaret on Wednesday evening, December 5, under the direction of Louise J. Lyons and Florence McGuire Herrick dancing studios.

This party will be held in The Little Club, Warren and Gaston streets, Roxbury. Members of Jay Riseman's fine orchestra have donated their services for the occasion.

Miss Lyons' studio is located at No. 715 Huntington avenue, Roxbury, while that of Mrs. Herrick is situated at No. 120 Larch road, Cambridge. The numerous pupils of both teachers are working hard to make the party a success.

WHIST PARTY FOR FUND.

A whist party in aid of the Fund will be given Monday evening, December 17, at Sarsfield Hall, No. 184 Dudley street, Roxbury, by Roxbury Lodge No. 185, New England Order of Protection. The party was arranged through R. H. Murphy, one of the leading members of the organization.

Ten per cent. of the proceeds of the seventh annual dance of the Almoore Club, in Intercolonial Hall, Roxbury, next Wednesday evening, will be contributed to the American's Christmas Fund. In connection with this affair a beauty contest will be conducted. The winner will receive a gold prize.

ORCHESTRA VOLUNTEERS.

Members of "Joe" O'Leary's widely known dancing orchestra have contributed their services through courtesy of Boston Musicians Protective Association, for the entertainment and dance, November 30, in "The Music Box" under the auspices of Anna Griffin Killion and the American's Girls' Club.

Entire proceeds of this party will be turned over to the American's Fund, as the management of "The Music Box" has granted free use of this dance hall for that evening.

Many striking features have been arranged. One of these will be an auction dance, the person bidding the highest sum having the privilege of dancing a dreamy waltz with Miss Margaret Black of Dorchester, who won the American's "charming girl" contest last Summer. What a treat is in store for the winner! "Peggy" is one of the best dancers in Greater Boston.

YOUNG WOMEN AID.

Several young women who have aided the fund recently include Jean Reardon, Mary Aiter, Marguerite Hartigan, Helen Harrington, Alice Miller, Jeannette Blumingthal, Edna May Dowd, Helen Cimmerman, Veronica Cunini, Helen Hooper, Lillian Walsh, Gertrude Tobin, Margaret Black, Marie Sweaney, Mary Lynch, Josephine Regan and Molly Daly.

Automobiles for necessary work connected with the Fund have been loaned by the following concerns: Checker Taxi Cab Company, Reo Motor Company and Franklin Motor Car Company.

Valuable assistance has been given to the Fund by H. H. Goldstein, manager of the Shawmut Theatre, Roxbury, through courtesy of General Manager Jacob Lourie. Mr. Goldstein made a large number of motion picture slides to help boost the Fund.

ADMIT SLAYER OF RASPUTIN AS 'DIPLOMAT'

New York, Nov. 23.—Prince Felix Youssoupoff, nephew by marriage of the last of the Romanoff Czars of Russia, and self-confessed member of the party of noblemen who slew Gregory Rasputin, monk confessor of the Czarina, today arrived on the Berengaria.

The traveled as Count and Countess Elston. With them was Baroness Wrungle, wife of the leader of one of the White Armies.

The Prince's admission of participation in the slaying of Rasputin is now intimated, might have interfered with his admittance to the country had he not been traveling as a diplomat under a passport accepted by the United States government.

Prince Felix said he came here to see the country, visit friends, exhibit and sell a collection of Russian antiques, and to consult with his lawyers about arranging for the return from Joseph E. Widener, Philadelphia millionaire, of two Rembrandt paintings, which the Prince said he surrendered to the American as collateral for a loan.

Also in the slaying of Rasputin the Prince was efficient.

PLAN CAMPAIGN TO PREVENT SHOPLIFTING

Plans for the prevention of shoplifting and store thieving during the holiday season were discussed at a dinner last night by the Stores Mutual Protective League in the Colonial Restaurant, Shepard Stores.

Edward P. O Halloran, manager of the Stores Mutual Protective Association, reported the progress since the inception of the organization. To date, over 2,300 persons have been apprehended, and about $70,000's worth of money and property returned to the stores.

Other speakers included: William H. Keene, the Shepard Stores; Herbert K. Russell, R. H. White Co.; James Kingman, Smith, Patterson Co.; James H. Fairclough, Jr., Jordan Marsh Co.; H. Ladd, Wilkins-Rhines Sons Co.; James T. Chase, Jr., First Co.; F. W. Powers, C. F. Hovey Co.; James J. Mcarthy, E. T. Slattery Co.; John J. Mcaiden, Chandler & Co.; C. W. Pollock, Thayer McNeil Co.; Alexander Luft, Timothy Smith & Co.; J. C. Reid, R. H. Stearns Co.; Thomas F. McGrath, Conrad & Co.; C. F. Vedder, Houghton & Dutton Co.; C. F. Wright, Lamson & Hubbard Co., and Arthur S. Erickson, secretary, Retail Trade Board, Chamber of Commerce.

The following officers were reelected:

Miss C. A. Miller, William Filene's Sons Co., president, Mrs. Ida M. Hill, C. F. Hovey Co., vice-president, and Miss R. H. Burke, secretary-treasurer.

NAME 6 WEALTHY MEN IN WINE CONSPIRACY

Uncovering a wine combine which supplied its customers with fruit juice, and with specific directions which when introduced into the grape juice produced a wine containing 20 per cent. alcohol, it has been made by the Federal prohibition agents.

Six men are already under indictment for conspiracy to violate the dry laws in connection with the wine combine. Wealthy men in New York and Hammondsport, N. Y., men are named in the indictment.

SIX INDICTED.

The alleged conspirators were arrested, according to statements, through the Taylor Wine Company, which has offices in Boston. Named in the indictment are Ernest Grosser of Boston, Walter Taylor, Frederick Taylor and F. W. Taylor of Hammondsport, and A. Mitchell of New York and Charles C. Fuller of Brooklyn. All are said to be connected with the Taylor Wine Company, Room 604, Cornhill.

Federal Agent John M. Mallon is alleged to have applied to Grosser for a job as salesman with the company at the Cornhill office. He was hired.

The indictment further charges that Mallon was furnished with samples of wine said to contain twenty per cent. of alcohol, an order book and printed instructions which were to be given to prospective customers.

SOLD GRAPE JUICE.

Mallon was to take five, ten and twenty-gallon orders for pure concentrated catawba, tokay and concord grape juice. Orders were to be forwarded from Hammondsport upon receipt of half the retail price, the other half to be collected by the express company when the delivery was made.

It is alleged that soon after the grape juice was received, the "nourished yeast" was sent by mail from Hammondsport, which so caused fermenting bung.

Agent Dennis T. Lordan, served as to the indictment, served gallons of catawba juice, 25 gallons and the same amount of the grape juice was delivered to him afterward, Lordan received the conventional bung, "caution" notices and instructions.

DOCTORS NAMED TO EXAMINE BABIES

The Better Babies Conference to be held by the Boston Health Department, assisted by the American, in Archbishop John J. Williams Hall, Municipal Building, West Brookline street and Shawmut avenue, South End, starting Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock, will have the services of some of the best-known physicians in the city.

SEVEN NOTED DOCTORS.

Dr. Frederick J. Bailey of Dorchester, deputy health commissioner, supervising the conference, today made public the list of physicians who have volunteered to be present on the opening day.

They are as follows:

Dr. George K. Pratt, medical director, Massachusetts Society for Mental Hygiene.

Dr. Elmer Barron, No. 320 Commonwealth avenue, Back Bay. A member of the staff of Tufts College.

Dr. H. B. Chandler, No. 244½ Beacon street, Back Bay.

Dr. H. B. Fink, No. 68 Bay State road, Back Bay.

Dr. C. L. McGrary, Needham

Dr. Edward Martin, No. 356 Warren street, Roxbury.

Dr. Cyril Lydon, No. 272 Bowdoin street, Dorchester.

NURSES NAMED.

The nurses assigned to the conference by Dr. Bailey are the pick of those employed by the city. They are Miss Mary Cullanan, supervisor; Mrs. Jennie Lundy, field supervisor; Miss Mary O'Malley, Miss Barbara L. Coughlin, Miss Mary Curley, Miss Maude B. Corkery, Miss Lola Reisner, Miss Grace Moran, Miss Louise Mogenson, Miss Anna O'Connell, Miss Helen Donohue, Mrs. Mary Byrnes and Mrs. Alice P. Mayers, matron. Miss Catherine Riley, will act as secretary of the conference.

Dr. Pratt is well known as a specialist in psychology. He will be assisted by two other physicians in his work at the conference.

ALL ARE EXPERTS.

Dr. Chandler, who will examine the children's eyes, is an expert in his line. Dr. Fink's specialty is that of the ear, nose and throat. Dr. Martin is a specialist in children's diseases, having many years experience at the Boston Dispensary.

Drs. Lydon of Dorchester and McGrary of Needham are both prominent in children's disease work. Dr. Barron of Commonwealth avenue is an expert in pediatrics. All the physicians are graduates of Harvard College Medical School.

Mothers are asked by Dr. Bailey, who will do the measuring of the babies, to be present at the hall on time, so as not to keep the physicians, who have sacrificed much time including their office hours, waiting.

Each day a change of physicians will be made and the mothers are assured by Dr Bailey some equally prominent will be in attendance.

WONDERFUL CHANCE.

"The introduction and the initiation of such a program of better babies conferences, such as is about to be begun by the health department, assisted by the American, is a wonderful offering to the mothers of infants in Boston.

"It is bound to be followed up," said Dr Bailey, "not only in this city, but all over the country. It will prove that it is better to have the baby examined in infancy and if any defects are found, to have them corrected while the child is still young, than to wait until the child is fully grown.

"Mothers should look at this proposition with great joy. It may be the means of saving a great many lives. The diet and teeth of a growing infant cannot be guarded too carefully. The conference will show to mothers just what is needed in a baby that is deficient in some way or another.

SECRET SERVICE MAN POISONED BY GIRL

Pittsburgh, Nov. 23 (I. N. S.).—J. F. Sullivan, Washington, D. C., secret service man, is dying in a local hospital, doctors say, from poisoning by strychnine believed to have been administered in beer which Sullivan says he was drinking with a pretty young Denver woman he had been assigned to trail. Sullivan collapsed today on a street car here.

CEMENT MANUFACTURERS in the United States will spend five million dollars in an advertising campaign. The United States government might help in that campaign, for using cement means keeping out and starving out rats and mice. Using cement means building for the centuries.

The cement men and the copper men should combine in an advertising campaign with a slogan:

"Foundations, pipes and roofs that will last forever."

THE KING OF DENMARK, who was told a while ago that Dr. Cook had discovered the North Pole, has now been told that Dr. Cook is sentenced to fourteen years in jail for swindles in connection with oil wells.

Psychologists if they examined Dr. Cook would probably find that he has the brain and the imagination of a young school boy.

Years ago he exhibited himself in a dime museum in New York, with Esquimaux dogs, sleds and heavy furs, and gradually imagined himself a real explorer. Finally he imagined that he had discovered the North Pole, perhaps he almost believed it. There is no penalty for imagining that.

But when he imagined that he had discovered valuable oil wells and sold stock—that was a different offence.

STRESEMANN, head of the German Republic, says the condition of Germany is nearly hopeless. The only possible solution of the problem would be to increase the length of the working day in Germany, that German workmen may earn enough to feed themselves, feed Germany's leisure class and furnish additional sums for reparations to the Allies.

AVERAGE SUCCESS is based on extra work done by the successful man. But at least he gets the fruit of his extra work. It is very encouraging for German workmen to be told that they must work long hours for barely enough to exist, the rest going to outsiders.

JUST FOR information, with no serious plan for a change, the government might send a commission to investigate drink conditions in France.

There a heavy tax on alcoholic spirits, with no tax on wine, has reduced the consumption of alcohol and drunkenness by from 50 to 80 per cent, and has diminished crimes of violence in proportion.

French soldiers drink wine, no spirits. Here, under prohibition, whiskey, gin and other alcoholic poisons are the only stimulants to be had. And you notice that crime has not diminished here.

There is no bootlegging in France, no illegal distilling. The French respect their laws, and are not ruled by any well-meaning minority.

M'ADOO'S SON IS DIVORCED BY WIFE IN PARIS

Paris, Nov. 23.—Mrs. Francis Huger McAdoo, formerly Ethel Preston McCormick, has been granted a divorce by the Seine Tribunal.

Her husband was the eldest son of William G. McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury of the United States. Mrs. McAdoo took an apartment here several months ago but has never occupied it. Mr. McAdoo arrives here today from London.

The action of the Tribunal followed two brief visits of husband and wife to the reconciliation chamber of the court, one of five minutes and one of three, at which no patching-up could be effected.

President and Mrs. Wilson and many notables were present at the wedding of the pair at Green Spring Valley, Md., June 21, 1913.

FRUIT CARGOES TIED UP IN TRUCKING ROW

New York, Nov. 23.—While representatives of the Fruit & Produce Traders' Association met today to end the situation resulting in a tie-up of fruit and produce at Pier 17, North River, twenty additional carloads of apples, onions and carrots were received.

Unless there is a settlement, future consignments of fruits and vegetables will be routed to other piers or freight yards, it was said.

The truck owners, who are organized, have refused to allow outside trucks to remove the produce and fruit from the pier and also suspended operations of their own trucks, pending an agreement.

UNIVERSE OF SHAVEN-HEADED WOMEN PREDICTED IN 2023

MEN WILL WEAR HAIR CURLED

Feminine Styles Indicate Barbaric Trend, British Savant Says

London, Nov. 23.—A universe of shaven-headed women and curly-haired men in 2023.

That is the prediction of Sir Arthur Keith, famous anthropologist, who bases his prophecy on the tendency of modern styles in masculine and feminine hairdressing.

Feminine styles indicate a barbaric trend, according to Sir Arthur. The aversion of women to showing the forehead, he said, is due to an instinctive urge to appear low browed, on the theory of Cuncasian women of 4,000 years ago that men did not like intellectual women."

The feminine tendency for barbaric styles Sir Arthur said, might lead them yet to adopt the sharp pointed sometimes blackened, teeth affected by African natives.

The fads fattening fat proving also to beauty of the savages have already been adopted by modern women, he pointed out.

Strangely Missing

MARIAN WAY

with the curl over the ear and a bigness of look that is not to be now being affected by many London women.

Attempts to introduce new styles of dress have not been going fads on the shores here. One permanent wave craze has only been put over among men. Now the hair dressers are looking, the toupee style. It is around the hairline of the bare on each side and having a graceful roll to run backside of the head into the forehead.

DIVING GIRL, 20, KIDNAPED, SAYS HER MOTHER

Believing her daughter Marian, a pretty twenty year old diving girl did not run away from home of her own free will and was instead kidnaped by unscrupulous persons, Mrs. Minnie B. Way, No. [illegible] Mt. Dorchester has appealed to the police to find the missing girl.

"Marian is naturally friendly," Mrs. Way told an American reporter. "She makes friends easily and I fear someone has victimized her because of this.

Mrs. Way says Marian has been away from home before without her knowledge, but has always returned. This time the mother fears her absence is more serious. The last time she returned she promised never to go without telling and cause worry again.

Two days after the girl father had promised her a position in a Summer street jewelry store the mother says a former man acquaintance was seen talking with her over the counter.

Mrs. Way believes this man may have been in a position to injure her daughter for evil purposes. Formerly this man had tried Marian to loan him money from an envelope the mother says.

Police are watching places in the Back Bay, where Marian had acquaintances and where a thorough trace may be obtained of her whereabouts.

HOW TO LAY OUT AND DRILL PANEL FOR SUPER-NEUTRODYNE

PANEL IS 24 BY 7 INCHES

Accommodates Four Tubes, Condensers and Rheostats, Transformers, Jacks, Etc.

The Boston American prints today the detailed panel layout for the supersensitive receiver.

This layout is designed for Federal parts, as explained in a previous issue. Other makes of parts will work just as well in this set, but in order to design a panel layout it was necessary to select some particular make of parts.

The two holes drilled at the extreme left of the panel are for the antenna and ground posts.

The next set of three holes is for the supports of the first variable condenser. This is the most difficult part of the layout, as the three supports seem to have no straight line relation with one another. If the detail of the layout is followed, however, this will straighten itself out.

Note that the top of the three holes is one-eighth of an inch to the right of a vertical line through the center of the circle. This is shown in the second group of three holes, which is for the second condenser. Between these two comes the first socket.

If the condensers are mounted in this way, and the coils have been mounted as explained yesterday, the coils will be tipped in the proper angle. It may be noted here that sets built with coils in the vertical position have worked, but the tipped position was found better.

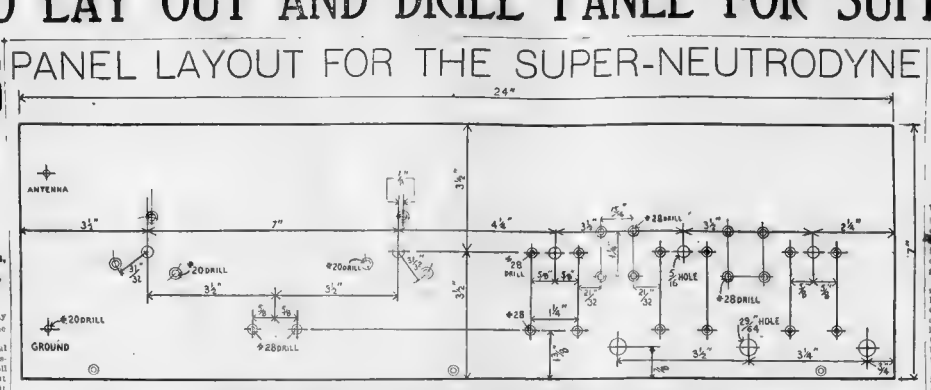
Of the next four holes, the two upper are for the rheostat, and the two lower are for the socket. The next four are for the first audio-frequency transformer, and the large hole below is for the first jack.

Then, in order, come the second rheostat and socket, the second audio-frequency transformer and the second jack, then the third rheostat and socket and finally the last jack.

Note that the rheostats do not go with the tube above which they are placed. The first rheostat is for a radio frequency amplifying tube, which is between the two coupling transformers.

The second rheostat controls the detector tube (under the first rheostat), while the third rheostat controls the last two tubes together.

Tomorrow the Boston American will show a simplified diagram of the set and its back panel layout for those who do not understand the symbols in ordinary use.



PLAN FOR DRILLING THE PANEL FOR THE AMERICAN'S SET

The panel for the Boston American Supersensitive [illegible] shown above. Federal parts are used. Other makes of parts may be used, but the plan above will have to be altered to fit the different sizes. The panel should be 24 inches by 7 inches. In drilling the holes for the two variable condensers care should be taken to locate the three holes as shown above, as this insures the proper tip to the radio-frequency couplers. As shown, the top hole of the three is drilled one-eighth of an inch to the right of the vertical line through the center of the circumference. The other two are equidistant on the arc.

Kellogg's Bran gives permanent relief because it is ALL BRAN!

Every member of your family will enjoy better health, look better, work better, sleep better—if they eat Kellogg's Bran regularly. Its natural, positive results for health is actually a blessing to humanity! Kellogg's gives permanent relief from constipation because it is ALL BRAN! It is scientifically prepared to relieve suffering humanity from constipation.

Kellogg's Bran cleans and purifies the intestinal tract; it cleans away toxic poisons and frees you from the dangers of many dreaded diseases, as well as from sick headaches, rheumatism and mental and physical depression. A week's trial of this great nature food will prove that its work for health is wonderful!

Consider Kellogg's Bran as a food. It is not a laxative nor a medicine. Bran is the outer coating of whole wheat and contains such nourishment elements as mineral salts and vitamins vitally necessary to sustaining life!

Kellogg's Bran is cooked and all ready to eat. It is delightful as a cereal, or sprinkled over your favorite hot or cold cereal. Another popular way to eat it is to cook or mix it with a hot cereal. In preparation, add two tablespoonfuls of bran for each person.

Delicious bakery batches are made with Kellogg's Bran. Recipes are printed on each package.

DO TWO THINGS: Eat Kellogg's Bran each day for permanent relief from constipation and be certain to eat at least two tablespoonfuls; in chronic cases with each meal.

First-class hotels, clubs and restaurants serve Kellogg's Bran in individual packages. Ask for it at your restaurant. All grocers.

Petition to President

TO the Honorable Calvin Coolidge,
President of the United States:

We, the undersigned radio broadcast listeners, respectfully call your attention to the serious interference to radio reception which is caused by remediable factors. Chief among these is the interference caused by commercial radio telegraph stations, which we believe is unwarrantable.

We therefore petition you herewith to take immediate and emergency action to have this interference stopped. We also ask that when Congress convenes, you ask that body to pass the proper legislation for permanent relief.

NAME AND ADDRESS

After this petition has been signed by one or more broadcast listeners, forward it to the Radio Editor, Boston American, 80 Summer street, Boston, 8, Mass.

'INTERFERENCE' PETITIONS POUR IN

Hearst papers throughout the United States will assist in collecting petitions from broadcast listeners to President Coolidge in order to put an end to commercial "code" interference and the interference caused by single circuit regenerative sets.

This means that Atlanta, Baltimore, Chicago, Detroit, Fort Worth, Los Angeles, Milwaukee, New York, Oakland, Cal.; Rochester, San Francisco, Seattle, Syracuse and Washington, D. C., will unite with Boston in an attempt to enlist every broadcast listener in the country in the fight against interference.

Signed petitions have been pouring into the Boston American office at a tremendous rate.

Blank petitions will be distributed in radio stores in Greater Boston today as fast as they can be printed. These should be returned when signed to the Radio Editor of the American.

If you are a broadcast listener and have not signed this petition, do IT TODAY, and mail it in at once.

Remember last Wednesday night when the ether was as clear as a bell until the commercial operators began pounding in?

Remember the night of the Kid Norfolk-Battling Siki fight and what the "com. ops" did to the broadcasting?

Remember and sign.

With the Listener-In

Programs broadcast by WEAF, New York, and rebroadcast by WCAP in Washington come in much stronger at Lawrence fading from the latter station. A. W. Bridgeport, R. C. set owner reports. There is considerably less interference from Toledo and the volume of the signals is much greater than those from WEAF.

One of the best announcers we have yet heard is the man at WOS, Jefferson City, Mo. He speaks slowly and articulates perfectly. "DX hounds" wish all announcers would study his style.

If you ever want to hear how a good drawl sounds over the radio, tune into WSB, Atlanta, Ga., Gosh, how that announcer can string out A-t—lan—ta, Jaw—Ga.

DRINK WATER TO HELP WASH OUT KIDNEY POISON

If Your Back Hurts or Bothers You, Begin Taking Jad Salts

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys. Keep your kidneys clean by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's waste and stimulate them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much, also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

After Nights Of Coughing

Sleep Comes At Last

Home Made Cough Mixture Best of All. Use Parmint

The cough that hangs on and hangs on—the cough you've taken everything for with no results, is just the cough that your own home made cough mixture will end speedily.

Make a supply yourself in a few minutes and keep it on hand this Winter—a half pint doesn't cost much; it's better than any you can buy, and the kiddies love it.

It is a fine remedy for chest colds and acute nasal catarrh.

With speed and beyond belief this home made cough mixture stops the toughest hang on cough, and all remains is the taste is sublimely good (too costly for ordinary cough syrups) that immediately covers the membranes like a soothing, healing poultice and blessed relief comes at once.

Get from any druggist one ounce of Parmint (double strength)—to this add a little granulated sugar and enough water to make one half pint—that's all there is to it.

Any remedy that overcomes catarrh, partially or wholly, is bound to be of benefit to those who are troubled with head noises and catarrhal deafness.

Get Parmint and get better.

BOSTON SPORTING AMERICAN

More Football for Boston

Boston has still another big week of football. Next Saturday, Boston College and Holy Cross will stage their annual afternoon tea at Braves Field. Forty thousand nervous wrecks will be taken care of after the game.

Ward Back for Holy Cross

The message that Harold "Plaster" Ward will be in the Eagle backfield for the Holy Cross game is reassuring and comforting to Boston College followers. He will be felt by the Purple line the same way as is a longshoreman's handshake by a cake-eater.

STRIBLING SHOWS CLASS; MALONE IS CONFIDENT

By JACK CONWAY

The boxing season at the Boston Arena will end next week in a blaze of glory.

Young Stribling, sensational Macon High School boy, will battle Joe Egan of Dorchester in a ten-round contest under the direction of the Arena A. C. on Monday night, while on the following evening the brilliant George Ward will have the inimitable Jock Malone as an opponent in a ten-session affair to be staged under the direction of the Suffolk A. A.

As soon as Ward and Malone leave the ring on Tuesday evening and the fans have departed from the building, Manager George Brown will put a large squad of workmen on the job to get the St. Botolph street playhouse fit for the indoor hockey and skating season.

There will be ice in the Arena twenty four hours after the Malone-Ward bout ends. All of which means that the knights of the padded gloves will not have an opportunity to show their class at the Arena until the latter part of March.

After next week's shows at the Arena, there will be a decided lull in the fistic game. The only place for big shows will be Mechanics Building, and there are very few dates for boxing in that place.

The Commercial Club has Lou Dogash and Pal Reed billed for a ten-round setto on next Friday night. Following that match there will not be a big show in Boston until the Armory A. A. holds forth at Mechanics Building on December 18. The only other Mechanics Building boxing date for next month is on December 21, when the Commercial A. C. will step into the spotlight once more.

* * *

Fortunately the shows for next week are high class affairs which will enable the fans to see some action before they have to shiver attending the movies.

Come Along, Ye Sports!

THE SPORTS DEPARTMENT of the Boston American wishes to announce the opening of its annual campaign for raising money for the American's Helping Hand Christmas Fund.

We're starting early this year.

That is because the Sport Department hopes this year to break all its previous records.

It hopes to raise more money from the sport fraternity between now and Christmas than was ever raised by a single department of a newspaper for a charitable purpose.

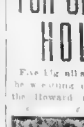
You know the object of the American's Christmas Fund—to give a real Christmas to the poor children of the city.

This announcement is notice to you, gentlemen of the sport fraternity, that you may begin sending in your contributions NOW, without waiting for the usual call, just to give us a good start.

COME ON.

STAR MAT CARD FOR GRAND ON HOLIDAY

Five big all-star bouts will be on the wrestling card to be staged by the Howard management at the Grand Opera House on Thanksgiving night.



Stanley Stanek, the Polish Lion, will appear on the mat in a wrestling [illegible] Mike Gen[illegible]n. Tarzanoff will have to be at his best to scrape defeat in the match. The Italian sensation will try to hold two automobiles pulling in opposite directions at North Square on Monday at 12:30 o'clock.

Another bout of unusual interest will be between Miss Cora Livingston, champion lady wrestler of the World, and Miss Virginia Mercereau, the western champion. Miss Livingston agrees to beat Miss Mercereau in two straight falls.

Should Miss Mercereau win either fall, she will be conceded the match.

Jack Albright, the man with a thousand holds, will meet a tough Frenchman in another two-fall match that should be a ripper from start to finish.

Still another novel bout will introduce Charlie Donnell, The Champion police wrestler of New England. He will meet Tom Moore, the Atlantic City police wrestler. This match will also be one fall to a finish. Donnell is the policeman who recently captured two bandits single handed.

NELSON STARTS SPORT FUND WITH $10

George A. Nelson of No. 224 Bunker Hill street, Charlestown, who has contributed much toward the Boston American Helping Hand Christmas Fund in the past, starts the Christmas charity fund this year with a $10 contribution to the fund.

His contribution is one of the first received by the sporting department and we heartily extend our thanks to him for starting the ball rolling.

It's a fine way to start Christmas charity, and George says he gets more pleasure out of the contribution than he gets out of eating his turkey dinner.

Nelson is well known among the Italian kids, in the North End, for his charity, and when they see him upper Hay [illegible] him with "Hello, Georgie."

SKI CHAMPIONSHIPS FOR BRATTLEBORO

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 23—Dartmouth will be represented at one of the largest ski tournaments ever held in the East, when Wisconsin, Minnesota and McGill skiers meet at Brattleboro, Vt., February 14 and 15 at the national ski championships.

Manager Smith also announced that Dartmouth would send men to Lake Placid, December 31 January 2 to participate in the Harding trophy cup meet.

The Green has won two legs of the award already, and if successful this Winter, will obtain permanent possession of the trophy.

Beside the Winter carnival meet at Hanover, February 7, 8 and 9 to which all New England colleges have been invited to participate, Dartmouth will stage a dual meet with McGill, February 22, and will enter men in the United States championship races at Lake Placid the same week end.

HARVARD SYSTEM IN CRUCIAL TEST IN COMING YALE GAME

WIN MEANS BIG BOOST FOR COACH FISHER

By TOM THORP

The famous Harvard football machine will be put to the crucial test in the game with Yale on Soldiers Field tomorrow afternoon. Much has been written in the past few years about the Harvard style of play. It has been claimed that the Crimson is versed in the dark secrets of the art of playing football, and supreme in every department of the game.

The Eliot system of instruction in the Building Trades has been a powerful factor at New Haven this season is admitted. It is said that if Harvard can bring forth an eleven that can defeat Yale under the present conditions the famous Harvard system will have taken one step forward in the progression of football.

BOSTON SPORTING AMERICAN

Where Are the Tickets?
Where is the bird that had that little adage, "try, try again" written into the books. We know of some folks who look upon this as bunk. They have been trying to get Harvard-Yale tickets.

Young Stribling a Fighter.
The photographs of Young Stribling, opponent of cagey Joe Egan, show he has all the appearances of being his mother's boy. From what we can learn a far different opinion will be given the boxing fans when he climbs through the ropes.

TED COY PREDICTS RETURN TO YALE GLORY OF HIS DAY

TWO ELI BACKFIELDS FACE HARVARD

"Do not say, 'Are we going to beat Harvard?' but 'How much are we going to beat Harvard by?'" said Ted Coy today.

Coy is professor of applied psychology to the Eli football eleven. He has prescribed a dose of the same medicine which he dealt to Harvard in the Stadium in 1907 and which he repeated, in modified form, in 1909. Coy is the last Yale player to have scored a touchdown in the Cambridge playing enclosure. He was a sophomore when he took the ball across for the tally in 1907, and he captained the Eli eleven which, in 1909, registered eight points, including two field goals, both by him, and a safety.

Only the Yale 1916 eleven has defeated Harvard since that date. Cupid Black captained that combination, and he and Coy have been familiar figures at Yale this season, for the first time since the World War. Much of the centre rush development by Lovejoy and Landis is attributed to Black, while Coy's dashing runs have been duplicated by Richeson, Neidlinger, Neale and Stevens, acting under advice from the brilliant object of the saying, "Let Ted do It!"

E. F. Blair.

Yale concluded home practice much relieved at the improvement of the physical condition of Luman and Bingham, ends; Milstead, Miller and Blair, tackles; and Eckart, guard. All have recently been in the hospital, but the absence of scrimmage practice this week has lifted the cloud of threatened disability.

HULMAN ONLY CRIPPLE WHO CAN'T GET IN.

Every injured player has improved remarkably fast and the coaches fully intend to start Luman at right end. His injured knee is not regarded strong enough to allow him to play more than the first half, when he will be replaced by Deaver, who has succeeded him in the daily practice this week.

Deaver was a regular last Fall, but has been in poor physical condition this season. Bingham will start the Harvard game with a heavily bandaged hand, as the result of a cut received in the Princeton game. He will probably be succeeded by either Lincoln or Hart for one period. There is no chance for Tony Hulman playing football again this year.

Yale's line assignments against Harvard will be a repetition of the program which Head Coach Tad Jones carried out against Princeton.

Two full elevens will be called from the sidelines, the substitutions being injected in the third and fourth period. Yale hopes to play the entire first half without a playing change. Only once substituting was necessary during the first half of the Princeton game by Yale, the Tigers making eight.

W. M. Lovejoy.

SIX ENDS READY IN CASE OF TROUBLE.

The entire Yale second eleven was in the field against Princeton when the final touchdown was scored and had ground a passage to the Tigers' 15-yard mark when time expired. The Yale reserves are eager to repeat their performance of scoring upon the Harvard varsity at Cambridge.

Because of the battered condition of the Yale ends it is probable that six players will receive the outpost assignment in the Cambridge Stadium, Bingham and Luman starting, giving way to Deaver and Hart, and being succeeded by Lincoln and Arthur Butterworth, who is being used at both tackle and end.

The improvement to Milstead's toe makes it certain that he will be used at tackle most of the game, while Blair will alternate with Jack Diller on the other wing. Rex Batty and possibly either Ed Green or Butterworth will be assigned to emergency tackle service.

Rex Batty

Substituting for the regular backfield guards, Eckart and Diller, will be Hubbard, Easterlyn and Norris. Hubbard's game has improved fast the past month, and he went into the Eli line-up against Princeton ahead of Norris.

MURPHY LIKELY TO GET IN GAME.

Together with Lovejoy and Landis, who will divide the game at centre, Burt, the third string snapback, has forced recognition by exceptionally strong pivot play for two or three weeks.

Richeson's quarterback game, which has not been equalled since Tad Jones himself ran the Eli eleven, will cause his retention as field general for probably three periods, but Russell Murphy is likely to be used during the final chapter.

Employing Billy Neale for deceptive endruns, Ray Pond for line-hammering and Captain Mallory for defensive and forward pass strategy, Yale will crash into Harvard within the first half. Stevens and Neidlinger will be sent into the backfield during the second half for flash performances which may yield a touchdown. Bench will replace Captain Mallory if he can be induced to quit the line-up, and Cottle is reserved as another line-ramming back.

Not in modern football history has Yale faced Harvard with such a wealth of backfield material and such a generally satisfactory rush-line.

ROOM REGISTRY FOR HARVARD GAME

Football fans in Boston for the Harvard-Yale game tomorrow who have not been able to find hotel accommodations are invited by the Boston Chamber of Commerce to visit the information booth on Commonwealth avenue between Charles-gate East and Charlesgate West.

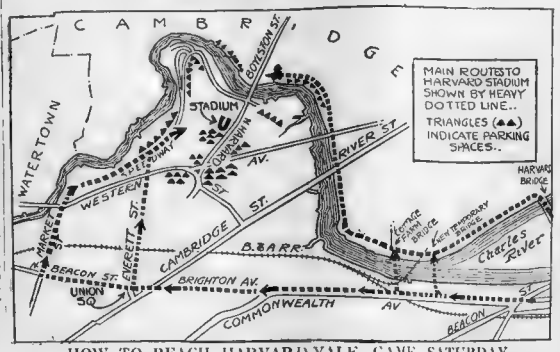
Boston's larger hotels report all their sleeping quarters engaged for tonight and tomorrow night, some of the rooms having been engaged more than a month ago. The demand for rooms is said to be the heaviest ever experienced.

Arrow in Back He Scores Winning Point

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 23.—In the middle of the Dartmouth session, which was devoted entirely to signal drill, a movie photographer, director and art assistant appeared on the field to shoot scenes for a forthcoming comedy, "The Winning Point."

Murphy, at fullback, on the second team was picked as the hero and scored the "Winning Point" from the one-yard line, under pressure of an Indian arrow, which the director used as a stimulus and which lodged in a well secreted board in the player's back.

STADIUM ROUTES



HOW TO REACH HARVARD-YALE GAME SATURDAY

PLAN TO HANDLE AUTO JAM AT STADIUM

City and State officials are ready for the thousands of motor cars expected to use the highways en route to the Harvard-Yale football game at the Stadium on Saturday.

To bring accidents to a minimum, Col. Alfred Foote will order the State police to arrest in every case of driving which endangers others, driving while intoxicated or without registration or licenses.

In Boston, Deputy Supt. Thomas Goode will be in charge of traffic, while Lieut. James Laffey of Station No. 21 will be in charge of the field force of 100 foot patrolmen and eight mounted patrolmen from Station No. 16.

ROUTES MARKED.

All routes in the city leading to the Stadium and the Speedway where cars may be parked, will have arrows marked "Stadium."

From 12:15 p. m. Cottage Farm and St. Mary's bridges will be open to traffic towards Cambridge only. At 4:30 p. m. traffic will be reversed to one way from Cambridge only and will continue so until 6 o'clock. No change will be made on the West Boston or Harvard bridges.

On the Allston side of the Charles River, Harvard street to Western avenue will be closed from noon until 6 o'clock on the Cambridge street side; the Charles River Parkway will be open as far as McNamee square, two blocks from the Anderson bridge, where vehicles may unload and park on side streets.

Boylston street from Harvard square to Anderson bridge will be closed to all but foot traffic during the game. The Harvard square district from Church street to Quincy square will be closed from noon to 2 p. m., and again from 4 p. m. until the congestion has thinned out. Motorists from Boston to Arlington or Lexington must detour through Quincy street at Harvard square, to Broadway and then to Massachusetts avenue.

Cars may be parked on one side of the river drive above the Anderson bridge and anywhere in Cambridge but the Harvard square area.

SEVERAL DETOURS.

Repairs are now under way on the following trunk roads and the following instructions are issued:

Boston-Lowell route, via Arlington—Arlington, Mystic street, construction about one and three-quarters mile; traffic from Lowell use one-half of road, the other half under construction; from Boston take at least three-mile detour.

Boston-Taunton—Construction for four miles at Easton and 3.5 miles on Blue Hill avenue at Milton closed to traffic; detour over Canton avenue.

Springfield-Worcester—Temporary bridge at West Brookfield over the Quaboag River at Makepeace crossing over the B. & A. tracks. Drive very slow over the old iron bridge to use during construction of new one at Makepeace crossing.

Worcester-Springfield via Southbridge—New construction for five miles from the Sturbridge line to Brimfield Centre; delays must be expected.

New Haven Runs Specials to Carry Football Crowd

Many extra trains are being operated by the New Haven road to accommodate the rush for the big Harvard-Yale football game tomorrow. The first special train left Grand Central station in New York today at 10 a. m.

Five more specials followed and extra sections were run by the Knickerbocker Limited and the Merchants' Limited.

Instead of the usual midnight train tonight, seven sleeping car trains will leave New York, with the regular "Owl" at 1:20 in the morning. Specials from the Harvard and Yale Clubs of New York will run tomorrow.

Extra trains will also be run after the game and extra cars attached to regular trains.

YALE PRACTICE IN STADIUM TODAY

New Haven, Ct., Nov. 23.—A short signal drill completed the work of the Yale varsity preparatory to the game against Harvard tomorrow.

Tad Jones

The work consisted of a signal drill and a short scrimmage for the first team and the second team. The team left today for Cambridge at 10:30 and was to have practice in the Stadium.

There are forty-five players in the party and the regular staff of coaches and trainers.

to the literature of the day "it will be because Yale has a better team. We will have no alibis. We're as well prepared as we hoped to be when we started our campaign with this game as an objective."

Rah gives the impression that he has something up his sleeve for the morrow's classic performance.

Harvard usually springs some surprise, and manages to score before Yale gets over the shock. Last year's Crimson players were numbered for the first time in history. Nobody knows whether they will be renumbered. Probably they will, as no more scouts will be peering down, sizing up Harvard secrets.

Boston is packed to the edges by this game, which looks like a Yale runaway, but which seems to have the greatest appeal ever to the football fan.

There wasn't a room in a hotel to be had for love or money.

All the big hostelries were sold out weeks ago. The smaller ones have long since filled the registers over the week-end.

Thousands of the invading throng haven't tickets, came hoping to get them here. But the hope seems vain. The speculators on the street haven't more than a dozen or so, and prices are sky high.

TICKETS $100 PER PAIR.

According to latest quotations, a pair demand $100, and the buyer has to work on the unseen basis. He's likely to pluck a couple in the wood in stands, and one hundred bucks is plenty of money for two feet of pine.

Usually before a big game there are thousands of returns at the H. A. A. office, but this year very few of the grads have sent back tickets. Two or three trickle in on a mail, according to Athletic Manager Moore, but that's all.

And the Rah on application last night thousands of names—Harvard men who failed to put their bids in in time. Except for a few lucky ones these will enjoy or deplore the game as the case may be, at the Boston American's great score board, or listening in the American's extra.

The crush at the Harvard office was so great that several officers were on the job and only those who showed proper credentials admitted that they might be sold tickets were sold some.

HOTELS ARE CROWDED.

Hotels are all set for a record business tomorrow night. All the popular cafes have been sold out, too, and many a celebrator will have to hold his after-the-game party on the Common or in the one-arms.

A big crowd went over to the Stadium to get a peek at the Yale athletes. The boys were cheered wildly when they came out, but the practice was behind closed gates.

Yale is supposed to have a lot of stuff that the Harvard scouts have not seen yet. But that doesn't worry Harvard much. Yale is always afraid that way by the world in general, and doesn't come through.

Yale and Army Rule Betting Favorites

Notwithstanding the increased activity in the stock market, Wall Street is finding time to devote considerable attention to the two football games that take place tomorrow, and already lively betting is being indulged in.

According to J. S. Fried & Co., one of the firms in the financial district which handles commissions of this kind, Yale is a decided favorite over Harvard, the odds on the former being as good as 5 to 2.

On the Army-Navy game, however, the odds are much closer, with the West Pointers held a slight favorite over the Annapolis men. Plenty of money is offered on the Army at odds of 6 to 5.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

—By B. C. Forbes—

America is lawyer-ridden. Consequently, it is law-ridden. Citizens, particularly business men, have allowed lawyer politicians to run our governments, both Federal and State. Not only have these lawyer-politicians induced us to employ law-making in only which has cluttered up this country with a greater number of faulty and foolish laws than encumbers any other country on the face of the earth; but these lawyer-politicians have contrived to set up our courts exactly to their liking. Investing judges with the most arbitrary powers over the freedom of you and m

Is it not monstrous that a man supposedly free country a judge should have the power to throw a responsible civic official into jail because somebody that official wrote displeased the judge?

The iniquity of the whole thing lies in permitting a judge to say what is "contempt of court," and in clothing him with the czar-like power of throwing a citizen of this democracy into prison without giving him an opportunity to have anyone but the prejudiced Judge himself pass upon the question of whether contempt of court was or was not committed.

It is conceivable, of course, that a judge should have power to deal on the spot with anyone who contems his court and interferes with the orderly conduct of its business. A policeman on his beat has such powers along this line, and the public do not complain.

But any one citizen to be able to declare that another citizen has done something to offend his dignity and the dignity of his office, and to have the power to pass a jail sentence upon the other citizen without giving the other citizen an opportunity to have his alleged offense passed upon by a jury, or at least by some judge other than the one involved, is assuredly not in accordance with the American people's idea of what constitutes justice and a fair and free trial for American citizens.

Judges are as liable as any other mortals to make mistakes, particularly when their own interests or the interests of their close personal friends are concerned. That Judge Julius M. Mayer, who ordered Comptroller Craig of the city of New York carted off to prison in New Jersey for sixty days because the latter, in the opinion of the Judge, was guilty of contempt of court, is not infallible any more than the rest of us has been clearly proved by court proceedings in reversal that Judge Mayer allowed his former law partner a far bigger fee for a certain case than it was proper him to allo w—the United States Supreme Court itself held Judge Mayer guilty of having allowed this improper fee.

If Judge Mayer erred in this instance when the person concerned was merely his former law partner, how much more temptation for him to err when his own conduct was called in question?

If Comptroller Craig, in his anxiety to protect New York City's $110,000,000 stake in the Brooklyn Rapid Transit receivership, made statements or misstatements—which Judge Mayer took offense at and regarded as amounting to contempt of court—surely it is no wrong as it could be to have Judge Mayer act as the sole judge as to whether an offense had or had not been committed. Assuredly Judge Mayer was within his legal rights in passing a jail sentence upon Comptroller Craig.

But the point here sought to be made is that, if this be the plan our lawyer-politicians have set up for the conduct of our courts, then it is high time the public took a hand and drastically changed the lineup.

Our courts should not thus be brought into contempt.

America not only passes more laws than any other country, but it is recognized throughout the world that our laws are so poorly drawn up that they would disgrace any land not even semi-civilized.

The fault, however, is yours and mine. We have allowed scheming lawyer politicians to frig things up to suit themselves. The laws they have passed certainly have produced enough billionaires to fatten the bank accounts of their own profession. But, outside of lawyers, who else is satisfied with the legal processes of this country?

ASSOCIATES BID FAREWELL TO PERKINS

Donald G. Perkins, for many years Daw England advertising manager for the Cosmopolitan Magazine, leaves today for New York to accept an important position on the business staff of Hearst's International Magazine, and last night his busy days associates in Boston tendered him a farewell banquet at the Boston Athletic Association.

After packing away the big feed, Donnie's friends blew out the candles of the birthday cake and told him how they had enjoyed his presence in the New England field, and how they were going to miss him, and how Donald G. Perkins things who were behind would probably be able to secure some business after he had gone, and how modest he was for a man of such big achievements in his chosen field and all sorts of nice things that a man's competitors are likely to say about him when he ceases to be their competitor any longer.

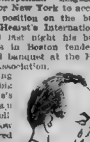
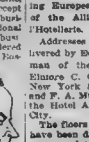
Toastmaster J. D. Hooley tried to throw a wet—with water—blanket on the proceedings by telling the world that when he asked for publicity for Donnie's farewell blowout, the editors asked "who'll it be, Kim?" But no one believed him.



George B. Dunham



Warren Kelly.

They all knew that, while Donnie has the violet backed off the green fields of advertising endeavor, he made no small dent in Boston during his stay in the town of the bean and the cod.

To all the pretty speeches and to the toastmaster's persiflage, Donnie replied in kind. He was always going to remember—you know the sort of thing. The usual farewell stuff. Still and all, as the late J. Lawrence Sullivan of Bridgeport fame used to say, there was a look of mingled pride and regret on his face that gave his words the stamp of sincerity. Among those present were: A. E. Greenleaf, president of the Greenleaf Company; Warren Kelly of Hearst's Magazine; A. B. Hall, George R. Dunham and Harry McDevitt.

"WOLLASTON 13" WILL HOLD DANCE

A large attendance is expected at a dancing party to be given on Thanksgiving night, Nov. 29, at "The Glenwood," on Hancock street, Wollaston, by the "Wollaston 13," a group of the younger social set. Invitations have been extended to Mayor Bates of Quincy and other city officials.

STAGE MANAGER FOR "OEDIPUS REX" HERE

David Bain, stage manager for Sir John Martin Harvey, arrived in town yesterday to rehearse the crowd of 200 "extras" used in the production of "Oedipus Rex" at the Boston Opera House. Tomorrow the first car of scenery and properties will arrive with the advance crew of mechanics who will begin erecting of the stage and orchestra pit for the installation of the massive Reinhardt production.

HOTEL SHOW WEEK IN NEW YORK CITY

The eighth annual meeting of the National Hotel Men's Exposition opened in Grand Central Palace, New York City, Monday, November 19, with all its usual brilliancy emphasized by the presence of the 250 visiting European hotel men, delegates of the Alliance Internationale de l'Hotellerie.

Addresses of welcome were delivered by Edward M. Tierney, chairman of the exposition committee; Simmons C. Green, president of the New York State Hotel Association; and F. A. Muschenheim, president of the Hotel Association of New York City.

The floors of Grand Central Palace have been divided and subdivided to accommodate the hundreds of exhibitors who are showing every conceivable product, commodity and service of interest to the hotel and restaurant man.

Interesting demonstrations are given by manufacturers of the latest mechanical appliances, such as dishwashing machines, meat and bread slicers, and laundry equipment; linoleum, every one of which is a leader for the saving of labor and money. The New England Hotel Association and the New Hampshire Hotel Association have interesting booths, and the Nurandi-Proctor Co. is among the Boston firms represented.

Perhaps the most popular booths are the several that invite the thirsty to sample generous goblets of "near beer" and champagne ginger ale. The economically minded may find considerable on board bills this week, as samples are distributed of every imaginable food from clam chowder right through to dessert, cheese and crackers.

And hunger having been appeased in the second floor annex, access to the third to view the marvellous "Touch-me-not" exhibits staged by the Society Culinaire Philanthropique. Chefs from the leading hotels in New York competed in works of art made from pastry, bread, meat, fish, potatoes, jellies, etc., with marvelous effects.

On Wednesday first prizes of all tee cups, were awarded in the buffet class, one going to the Hotel Ambassador for the most artistic ensemble in barge carved with horses and Father Neptune, designed to carry a huge salmon). Other exhibits worthy of special mention were shown by the Waldorf-Astoria, Hotel McAlpin, Martinique and St Regis.

During the week, coal, labor and construction problems were discussed and suggestions for the betterment of general conditions were offered by leading hotel men from all over the world. The thirty seventh annual banquet of the New York State Hotel Association was held on Thursday evening at the Hotel Commodore with Gov. Alfred E. Smith as the speaker of the evening. During the dinner, Charley Gehring entertained the ladies attending the convention at a theatre party at the Winter Garden where the show was "Greenwich Village Follies" is playing. Following the dinner and theatre party, a supper dance was given at the Hotel Plaza through the courtesy of Fred Sterry and E. C. Fogg.

Friday's program called for a complimentary luncheon given by the exhibitors to all visiting hotel men and ladies, at the Grand Central Palace, and a supper entertainment at the Commodore with John McE. Bowman as host.

On Saturday the delegates of the I. H. A. will be taken on an automobile trip to Westchester County, with a luncheon at Briarcliff Manor, through the courtesy of Attorney Depew Steele, afternoon tea at Gedney Farm, as guests of Edward H. Randall, and a dinner at the Westchester Biltmore country club, by courtesy of John McE. Bowman. The Exposition at the Palace will close Saturday evening when the exhibitors will pay their respects to the delegates of the International Hotel Alliance.

All are agreed that this year's show is a tremendous success and a source of opinion, information and facts of vital importance to the hotel and restaurant man.

FOOTBALL DANCE AT HOTEL ASTOR.

Following the Army and Navy football game on Saturday there will be a special football dinner dance in the Grand Ballroom of the Hotel Astor. Reservations have been made from all over the country by people prominent in social, business and professional world, as well as in army and navy circles. It is expected that 1,500 will attend this dinner dance—a truly fitting climax to a brilliant football season.

MANAGER SINGLETON ENTERTAINS HOTEL MEN

LATZ BUYS SITE FOR ATLANTIC CITY RESORT

Announcement is made that Harry Latz, head of the Alamac Hotel Company, has purchased the Atlantic City property of Senator Edge, on which he will erect a 15-story hotel. Mr. Latz opened on November 15, the Hotel Alamac in New York City, which is the superlative in luxury, excellent taste and personal service. Hotel men are still talking of the "house warming"—the dinner given by Mr. Latz to mark the opening of the Alamac, when each dish was of a different national origin and served by waiters costumed to represent the various countries.

HUGHES' SKILL MAY BAR FORD IN SHOALS DEAL

By JOHN T. LAMBERT

Washington, Nov. 23. (C.N.S.)—A contract drawn for a private corporation during the war by Charles Evans Hughes, now secretary of state, may deprive the United States government of a right to lease Muscle Shoals to Henry Ford, it became known today.

Mr. Hughes was called in as special counsel by the Air Nitrate Corporation to compose the compact under which the company contracted to build the nitrate plant at the shoals. The corporation is a subsidiary of the American Cyanamid Company which enjoys a monopoly of the nitrate business in this country.

It spent about a million of the government's money and was accused of waste and efficiency by congressional committees when charges were sent to the office of the United States attorney general where they now repose.

Mr. Hughes, it is revealed, was employed by the corporation to draw a contract which would enable it to gain complete control of Muscle Shoals, whenever it desired, after the war. The option drawn by Mr. Hughes and which may possibly stand in the way of permitting the government to lease the shoals to Mr. Ford is as follows:

"It, upon the cessation of this war, or before any other war, the United States determines to seek the construction, equipment or operation of any of the said plant, the Air Nitrate (Corporation) shall be given the first opportunity to purchase the same upon as favorable terms as any other parties is willing to accept therefore, before the United States shall sell the same to any other party."

SOUTH BOSTON BOYS IN MINSTREL SHOW

On next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights, St. Augustine's Cadets of South Boston will stage their third annual minstrel show in the school hall on E street. Last year more than 1,000 persons witnessed the performance and Hugh Sullivan will be the interlocutor. The ends are Chris Mc Grory, "Pat" O'Donnell, John Daley, Charlie Reardon, Jim Foley, Mort Flaherty, Jack Flaherty and John Cremmins. The specialty numbers will be given by Eddie McCann, Joe Reardon, Dick Howe, Eddie Wallace, Tom McGovern, Jim Barry, Al Mahan, Bill Mulkern, Barney O'Donnell, Jerry Norwood, Jim Desmond and the McCauley brothers. Eddie Mahoney will play a cornet solo and the chorus will be made up of 70 boys.

Let Each One Plan to Feed a Needy Family on Xmas

Do you wish to perform a good deed?

If so, why not plan to feed at least one needy family at Christmas through the medium of the Helping Hand Christmas Basket Fund of the Boston American?

This fund is now open for contributions, and every donation, no matter how small, will be gratefully received and publicly acknowledged through the columns of this paper.

It costs $2.75 to buy one parcel of food such as the Boston American Christmas Fund will distribute to thousands of families in Greater Boston on Christmas Day.

Don't you want to provide one of these hard-working mothers and her undernourished kiddies with a good dinner on this great holiday? If you do, obey that impulse NOW by sending in your contribution at once. We are doubly thankful for early contributions, as we can plan to better advantage.

You will enjoy your own Christmas dinner much more if you help a needy family, and your reward will be the prayers of a happy mother and her precious children.

Please remember that EVERY CENT you give will be used EXCLUSIVELY to buy food. The Boston American pays all expenses of this great undertaking.

Last Christmas, with the co-operation of kind-hearted Bostonians, we fed 37,000 persons in Greater Boston, distributing 92,000 pounds of wholesome food. Will you help us feed 50,000 persons this season?

Where Dogs Eat the Dead

And One Woman Has Ten Husbands

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

This country is told that it should wander across three thousand miles of ocean "and save Europe." That would be quite a job, as Europe is determined to go on fighting, quarreling, robbing, pillaging, and doesn't WANT to be saved—although it might consent to take some more of our billions and allow us to send a few more of our men, if we were foolish enough for that.

If we should undertake to save Europe the next step of course would be to go on and save the rest of the world—one, two or three countries at a time. We ought surely not to "play favorites."

Before we got through we should have quite a job. Consider, for instance, our undertaking on starting out to save Mongolia.

In those strange lands they found collections of dinosaurs' bones and dinosaurs' eggs, which Americans will be able to see in the museum soon.

They also found human beings that would take a good deal of "saving" if the United States should ever start to save the world.

For instance, the habit in Mongolia is for all the men to run away when anything unpleasant appears, leaving the women and the children to take care of themselves.

When Mr. Andrews appeared in his automobile and entered a Mongolian village the men ran to the hills as fast as they could go. They left women and children to "the monster."

These interesting people don't BURY the dead. They believe that when a man dies a devil enters his body, so they put his body on a wagon without any springs and start off over the rough roads. Soon they throw the body overboard, and in three or four minutes it is devoured by a pack of wild dogs—the most ferocious animals in the world, it is said. These dogs follow behind the wagon.

Certain places where these dead bodies are usually taken are frequented by thousands of the horrible dogs that live on nothing but the dead bodies of human beings.

Some day perhaps some kind-hearted person in Washington or Kalamazoo will discover that it is our duty to go over to Mongolia, prepare nice graveyards, kill off the dogs and supply coffins for the Mongolians. We OUGHT to do it, possibly, but there are other things we have to do here.

Then there are the Mongolian ladies. They practice polyandry, one woman having several husbands, in some cases as many as ten husbands for one woman. That was usual once in many countries. It persists still in the far western part of Mongolia. There the men are not fussy, apparently.

The one woman must have a good deal of cooking and mending to do.

Is it our American duty to send over and reform the morals of these ladies, and put a little more ambition into these husbands, on the broad ground that it is our duty to "save far western Mongolia morally"?

And then there is the "religion of the Llamas," a parasitic priesthood that lives in huge monasteries doing nothing, living on those that work outside.

A law of this pagan religion says that the first born son must always be sent to the monastery to be a Llama monk. The families are not big and this takes about half of the male population.

Mr. Andrews says, "These priests are nothing more nor less than parasites, living in ease and comfort at the expense of the public." Should the United States "save Mongolia" by going over, tearing down a few thousand of those insect-infested monasteries, and putting the inhabitants to work, with perhaps a few of the vicious dogs to hurry them?

It wouldn't be a bad idea, it certainly would be pleasing in the sight of Providence. But why must WE do it?

And if it isn't our business to keep dogs from eating the dead in Mongolia, or keep the far western Mongolia lady from having ten husbands, or keep half the male Mongolian population from going into monasteries, which they seem determined to do, WHY IN HEAVEN'S NAME IS IT OUR BUSINESS TO GO OVER AND SAVE EUROPE FROM HER FOLLIES, WHICH COMPARE NONE TOO FAVORABLY WITH THOSE OF FAR WESTERN MONGOLIA?

Will Your Widow Dress as Well as Your Wife?

WHAT progress there is in human habits and conditions of living results from the experience and skill of individuals. The experience in part can be passed on from generation to generation. Skill dies with its possessor. Life insurance saves the next generation from starting where the last began. It permits your children and mine to begin where we leave off. Because it makes possible courage, education and opportunity. It helps those who survive the strong leader of a group or family to build upon his achievements. Because backward races have not done this, they remain backward.

Kill the Engine

Editor Boston American:

Why not extend traffic laws so they will compel such motor-driven car coming to a stop at a curbing to kill the engine? This will at least hamper some of our more daring desperadoes in their plans for quick getaways.

Only One Love?

Editor Boston American:

I am seeking a psychological solution to the question if it is possible to have more than one genuine love affair in a lifetime. I have always contended that no man or woman could love more than once, and I hope that my question will be taken seriously and answered in the same spirit.

More Protection Urged

Editor Boston American:

Relative to the recent murder of two bank messengers by robbers, there can be no denying the fact that at least some bank officials are rather lax in their rules concerning money deliveries. The cost of armored wagons is small. The cost of adequate police protection is nil. The mere fact that the banks have their money insured is no protection for the clerks on whom such hazardous duty falls. Either give these clerks all necessary protection or else engage armed policemen and armored cars.

Husband Out of Work

Editor Helping Hand:

I would be so happy if some one could help us out a little. My husband has been out of work for four weeks and cannot get anything to do. I tried everywhere to get work, but could not get any, as business is so dull here. My husband has been under the doctor's care for some time with a weak heart, and I have just begun to get on my feet after a year and a half of sickness, so it makes it pretty hard. I have two boys, seven and eight years old, but big for their ages. Any help in the way of clothes would be mighty nice, and would encourage us a lot. My husband wears size 40 and I wear size 40 or 42.

MRS. J. O. C.

Wants Artificial Leg

Editor Helping Hand:

I broke my artificial leg last August right at the ankle, and it has so much iron on it to repair it, and is four inches shorter than before that I thought some one might have a right leg that I could fix up. I know I could fix it up one. I work in a shoe factory as a stitcher, but I am out half the time, so I only get enough to live on.

G. O. W.

All Need Clothes

Editor Helping Hand:

I am expecting a baby in three and a half months, and am asking if some one can help us with clothing. I cannot enter a factory or work in any place where they do not understand. I thought perhaps some of those who are preparing for the holidays would need a little help in the work, who in return would give us clothes. I cannot allow myself to think of clothes for the coming baby when our other four children are so much in need. I have a girl fourteen who needs a dress and coat so badly, and the two girls, three and five, also need clothes badly. My boy, ten, is out of everything a child needs in cold weather. My husband is not able to work steadily and works nights for such little pay. He has a bad cough and can do only certain work. I would be so grateful for clothes. When any one rags on the Hoop we all act as though we had committed a crime, simply because none of us really have clothes to go before people. We are just after losing our youngest, and are broken-hearted, and having poverty with it, it does not seem as though we could face the holidays for our little ones.

MRS. L. M. M.

Needs Help Badly

Editor Helping Hand:

I am the mother of five children and another little stranger coming next month without a thing for it. I have to lie in bed all the time, because of a rupture, and with sickness in the last year it has been hard even to get along, so my husband has been sick, too. I have never asked for help before, and would not now, only I do need the things so badly and I live so far away. I have a little girl seven, who needs clothes badly, also a boy four, and the others are boys ten, twelve and fourteen. Will you please, if there is no one needs them more than I do, help me with the little clothes and some night dresses for myself.

MRS. P. L.

Editor Helping Hand:

My grandma and I wish to thank Mrs. B. B., not once but a thousand times for her kindness in sending us some very nice clothing. My grandma says she is a good Samaritan. All we can do is to thank her and pray for her, but God will do the best part, and I hope he will have her dear name written in gold in the golden book in Heaven.

J. A. R.

MAKE THE FUND BIGGER

The success of the Boston American's efforts in feeding the needy last Christmas was due to the co-operation we received from thoughtful, kind-hearted people. We hope they will be in a position to assist us again this year. Every contribution will be gratefully acknowledged through the columns of the Boston American. Ever-ready and cheerful rivers of the Helping Hand are particularly solicited to extend their charity and make the Basket Fund reach many more families this season.

Wants Old Lamp

Editor Helping Hand:

Is there anyone who can spare an old-fashioned lamp such as is used for hanging from the ceiling. I have no gas in the house, and we are too poor to buy lamps. All I have is candles that I get in the five and ten cent store. As my eyesight is very poor, I have difficulty in reading the papers at night.

MRS. M. P.

Sends Long List

Editor Helping Hand:

In looking over my children's clothes, I find a few that may help some one poorer than I, especially shoes. The list of things follows. Through you I have sent parcels to Nashua, N. H., and Dighton, Mass., but both these got so many answers, I thought I would send these to some one else.

MRS. C. J. R.

Thank you for the nice list and all. You have been sent the addresses of Mrs. E. E. M., who will be grateful for the overcoat, and of Mrs. M. C., who will find a good use for the children's clothing.

For Boys and Girls

Editor Helping Hand:

Please send me the addresses G. R. F., Winnifred and M. M. B. The two latter appeared some time ago, and if they have been already supplied, do not send the addresses, but send two others. I have some clothes for boys fourteen to sixteen, and clothes for a girl about the same age.

MRS. F. P. W.

Thank you. The two latter have been generously supplied, so you have been sent the address of Mrs. J. D., who has a boy sixteen and a girl fourteen in need of clothing. Also the address of G. R. F.

THROUGH A LAND OF PLENTY AND WASTE

By Herbert Kaufman

"THE TWENTIETH CENTURY" and "The Manhattan Limited" are perambulating office buildings.

All sorts of deals are consummated in their little compartments. Likely as not a group of Armour executives is aboard, figuring disposal of surplus leather stocks.

Lasker and Wrigley may be next door, laying preliminary plans for Hiram Johnson's presidential campaign, while Judge Gary, behind another steel panel, analyzes Thompson plant reports and debates production economics with President Farrell.

But the Northwest hasn't yet reached the state of development at which deskrooms are provided on day trains. Therefore these notations, about the country between Vancouver and Portland, must be dictated to a Remington portable under a barrage of general conversation.

Try it if you think it's easy.

"I Got More Seats Than Brains"

The club car porter has just told the brakeman that he has more seats than brains.

Washington, paraphrasing the sentiment, might aptly state that she has more resources than intelligence.

Her bigger cities are shrewd and efficient, but the majority of her villages are still thriftless squatters.

Here's a town on the main line and along a concreted highway with a litter of abandoned logs for a front yard. Great slabs of firewood, some burnt and charred, are rotting by the roadside.

No one has bothered to cut and saw them. Meanwhile stoves and furnaces are depleting convenient forest. Today we're timber rich. Why bother about tomorrow's poverty? Back east you're paying $16 a cord for kindling because yesterday was similarly reckless of consequences.

Lazy-Minded Profusion

Smart bungalows, but without a tree in the yard. Yet a hundred yards distant, perfectly formed evergreens may be had for the mere trouble of transplanting.

West Tenino next—a gangling hamlet nesting at the foot of fragrant, verdant hills, and cluttered to north and south with deadfalls, criminally surrendered to the elements.

Enterprise would ship such thoroughly seasoned fuel to Seattle. But profusion is proverbially lazy-minded.

Slashed hillsides by and by and abandoned sawmills. No reforestation, brutal, regardless, ruthless methods, take it while the going's good and let the future settle the bill. This is a new land. You can tell it by its squanderous habits.

Youth is cruelly wasteful.

By Right of Merit and Service

Herds of angoras would clear such idle acres, support themselves, pay taxes and yield a neat profit.

Loafing acreage that should be covered with self-paying hired men to prepare it for agriculture, enrich the soil and render a yearly tribute of mohair and, finally, meat and pelts.

The East may no longer leave dimes on vacant lots, come back in a few years and find them grown into a dollar, but the Northwest can put horse on a tittle of capital and turn it into a fortune.

Japanese truck farmers who urge every inch of Puget loam to perform maximum service have established $800 to $1,500 per acre values through cultivation of property that originally cost no more than this.

Later on folk who'll use their brains as well as their heads will come over the Cascades with goats, alfalfa, swine and dairy herds and by right of merit and national service replace slacker homesteaders.

Pop an Acorn in the Ground

The vanguard, however, is already on the ground—as an ample, domed barn, and pastures clean and level as a billiard table, testify. You'll a spacious, spic-span dwelling with an immaculate coat of white lead. Trim paths for all the world like strips of chocolate ice cream in a slab of pistachio turf on which a flock of blooded lambs graze and hundreds of leghorns scratch and pick.

Neighboring ramshackles might also have beds of blossoming roses to nuzzle the verandas if they chose to cultivate 'em.

Three apple munching kiddies come trudging home from school past foaming, little mountain torrents and tiny lakes where teal dive and cranes wade. How'd you like to meander with them to the splash of leaping trout? Let's hope they'll be better stewards of prosperity than their parents.

Endless successions of charred and devastated woodlands!

That's why your doors and trim and two-by-fours are more expensive each season.

The Schwartzchild has furnished South Germany with structural stuff for centuries uncounted and continues to provide its usual quota of building materials. Europe protects precious assets and constantly "pops an acorn into the ground" for every oak that's felled. We don't understand the meaning of conservation.

Chehalis and the New York Department Store. One story high, but with a heavy concrete foundation ready for the skyscraper that's later to occupy the site.

Cities must spread wherever factories serve for basic needs. Balance sheets'll finally locate the factories there, too. Mounting transportation costs will see to that.

Our Most Prolific Ancestor

Half a dozen boys are folding local papers for route delivery. That's how Adolph Ochs of the New York Times started. He got his experience in the little town that offered a chance to learn what makes the big wheels of journalism go.

Who knows but what Chehalis may in turn provide a publisher for Manhattan? Most of the men dominating metropolitan affairs started for Wall Street and Broadway from the cross roads.

Marshall Field, Henry Ford, Charley Schwab and Calvin Coolidge were once "hayseeds." Jacob Epstein, Baltimore's premier merchant, carried a pack of Maryland pikes.

The thirty-cent lunch boxes, offered on the station platform, aren't for him. Instead, he orders a $2.25 meal.

Later when he's ready for independence and can't scrape together the means to establish his own concern, calculation of the difference between hotel and dairy lunch charges, dining car prices and lunchbox costs will prove that he slew opportunity with false pride and a table knife.

Pottage is still the great national dish. The prodigal son was the most prolific of all ancestors.

STELLA DALLAS By Olive Higgins Prouty

New and Intensely Interesting Serial of a Marriage of an Educated Man to an Untutored Woman

—Isadora Duncan pupils, perhaps—slim, sleek, sylvan creatures in Greek draperies

Laurel leaned up against one of the pillars in the hotel foyer and gazed about her. The place was wrapped in its usual mid-afternoon lifelessness—a few idle bellboys on the bench at the foot of the broad staircase; a couple of idle elevators; a solitary clerk behind the brass grill over the mahogany desk; dozens upon dozens of empty armchairs; in one of them an old man, with a King Orange nose, sound asleep; in a far corner four women playing silent bridge

As she gazed her eyes took on their peculiar expression

As Laurel gazed at the women, her eyes took on their peculiar contemplative expression. She knew who they were. Three of the players were prominent social leaders in the hotel world, and the fourth, the poor, pinched looking, unattractive little creature in black, was Mrs. Tom Lawrence, who had arrived two days ago. Laurel had learned all about Mrs. Tom Lawrence from behind the chair backs. As she stared, her eyes narrowed. "They're being nice to Mrs. Lawrence," she thought, "and Mrs. Lawrence is divorced, while mother is only separated."

Slid Into Chair.

She slid into the deep-seated lap of an enormous leather armchair near by. Through the big front doors she could catch a glimpse of a group of girls about her own age, seated on the piazza railing, swinging their legs, and eating candy. One of the girls was the daughter of the pretty Mrs. Cameron, now playing bridge in the far corner. Laurel did not join the girls. Nor did she give mothers at a summer hotel a second opportunity to call, "Come, dear, I think you'd better come in now," to their children when she became one of the group; nor the children themselves to link arms and move away from her.

This year she had scarcely given them a first opportunity. Somehow things had been worse this year than ever before, and right from the start, too.

She looked up at the loud-ticking clock. It was only quarter after four. Her mother had told her that she must amuse herself this afternoon. She always had to do that, whenever her mother was going to be busy in the bedroom they shared, "washing out a few things." There wasn't room for two, when there was laundering going on.

Laurel sighed, rose from the big chair and wandered over to the glass-covered case of candies; stared at them for a minute or two; turned away; lividly observed a rack of picture postcards. Finally she meandered down a long corridor past a series of cardrooms to a little pink parlor at the end. From behind a cushion on a sofa, she drew forth a book, and tucking it under her arm returned to the big chair. She curled herself up in it, child-fashion, and opened the book well towards the middle. She began to read.

The old men woke up and left his chair. The game of bridge came to an end. The four players disappeared. The group of girls on the railing outside drifted apart. But Laurel didn't once glance up. She hardly moved for a whole hour and a half except to turn the pages of the book. The hotel had suddenly ceased to exist for Laurel Dallas. Her heart was bleeding for David Copperfield.

Behind Cushions

Laurel never read "David Copperfield" when her mother was with her. Today the book, as usual, would be returned to its hiding place behind the cushion in the little parlor when she had finished with it. Laurel never carried it with her upstairs for her mother to catch a glimpse of, and make remarks upon. Of course her mother had had to know that she had tucked it, with several other books, into a corner of the bottom of her trunk when they had last packed. But there was no need in flaunting it before her mother's eyes. On the flyleaf of Laurel's "David Copperfield" was written: "To Laurel, from her father," with Christmas and a date below. There had been a whole boxful of them.

"Books" her mother had said with an exclamation of disappointment when they had been received the preceding December, "a whole pile of old fashioned book-"

Laurel knew her mother preferred something more modern, when it came to printed matter informing literature that kept one up to date as to what was going on in the world of clothes, and fashion, and society; photoplay magazines, with some theatre talk in them and a few snappy short stories. The table in the bedroom which Laurel shared with her mother was always littered with a dog-eared collection of such periodicals.

Laurel took the elevator up to that bedroom now. It was after 6 o'clock, and by this time, she calculated, the ironing-sheet and for bidden electric iron would be safely tucked out of sight in the bottom of her mother's trunk.

It wasn't an attractive bedroom. It was tucked way up under the eaves, had slanting walls, and a single curtainless window. Its furniture was much too big for it —made it look sick and shrunken, like a child in cast-off clothes many sizes too large. The iron bed, white enamel once but nicked and battered now, extended halfway across the window-pane; and there was a perfectly tremendous stuffed armchair in the room, discarded from some parlor below evidently, a shabby affair which, shut up in this little coop, was like some big ugly animal crammed into a circus cage—a rhinoceros Laurel decided, for it was the same dingy color, and its back and arms were worn bare and naked.

The walls of the room were covered with unpleasant reminders of former occupants—long brown streaks made by the striking of sulphur matches, oil-stains, ink-spots, splotches where flies and mosquitoes had met bloody deaths, and bruises here and there exuding dry plaster. Behind the commode the faded, jaundiced-colored paper bore the whitish, pocked appearance of a face once swept by small-box; and where the bed was shoved close against the wall the paper was rubbed shiny and amber-colored. Laurel thought it was the worst "cheapest room" that she and her mother had occupied for a whole season.

Laurel was experienced in cheapest rooms. They were all more or less alike. That is, there was always something chronic and incurable the matter with him. They were either up very high beneath the eaves, possibly a floor above where the elevator ran, or down very low beside a noisy service-room, or groaning elevator shaft. Some of them had queer smells. Some developed queer smells. Most of them were furnished with discards, and all of them were equipped with the everlasting commode, bowl-and-pitcher, and unlovely slop-basin.

Laurel used to dread her first glimpse of the latest "cheapest room" her mother had engaged, trailing with a sinking heart after the scornful bellboy who guided them along endless halls and corridors, farther and farther away from the luxury of the upper downstairs, to the door of the undesirable little apartment, flinging it open, it seemed to Laurel, with a gesture of disgust. But Laurel's mother told her she ought to be thankful that such things as "cheapest rooms" existed. "It is only by occupying the cheapest room in the house, that you and I can go to nice hotels, where nice people are," Mrs. Dallas explained to her daughter

Impressive Foyers

The hotels which Mrs. Dallas patronized were always elaborate affairs with expensive, porte-cochere entrances, big impressive foyers lit by enormous inverted shaded-urn lamps, and dining-rooms of ballroom dimensions filled with round tables, and mahogany chairs and, during the crowded dinner hour, an army of waiters with huge oval trays rushing about like darting water-bugs.

To Laurel there was something magic in the fact that it was possible under the same roof to eat and sleep in such different surroundings. She used to pretend that, like Cinderella, a wand was waved over her, too, when she emerged from the shabbiness of some "cheapest rooms" and approached the splendor of some ground-floors with their bright lights, bright music, long stretches of soft carpet springy as moss, with women trailing over it on their way to the dining room for dinner — pretty, rich-looking women with bare necks, and shoulders powdered as white as gardenias.

But their necks and shoulders weren't any barer nor any whiter than Laurel's mother's, nor their cheeks any rosier, nor were they any prettier! Laurel thought that her mother was the very prettiest lady that she had ever seen in any hotel!

At Summer Hotel.

One morning in late August Laurel woke up very early in the slant-ceilinged bedroom under the eaves. She knew it was early, not because the traveling clock in its worn leather case on the bureau across the room told her so (the clock was turned so she couldn't see its face), but because it was so still, and because she always woke early on the morning of the day set for her yearly visit to her father.

She sighed she knew how early it was. A Summer hotel, even the service wing, slept so late. The sun rose from out the ocean, and of course the "cheapest room" hadn't a glimpse of the ocean.

Laurel didn't dare risk getting up and looking at the clock, for not for anything, would she have disturbed her mother asleep beside her. Her mother had probably been up until nearly morning to finish her packing. No. She would simply have to wait for the alarm clocks in the servants' quarters across the alleyway. They usually began to go off about six to six-thirty. In the meanwhile she must lie very quietly and not joggle the bed. Cautiously she folded and hands beneath her head, and proceeded to content herself as best she could, gazing about with sleep-loving, wide-open eyes.

Another large installment of this thrilling story will appear tomorrow in the Boston American.

What Is the Effect Upon the Two, and Especially Upon Their Strange and Beautiful Child Laurel?

WHO SAID IT AND WHERE

"Everybody likes and respects a self-made man. It is a great deal better to be made in that way than not to be made at all."

Oliver Wendell Holmes in his "Autocrat of the Breakfast Table." Holmes, however, did not think a self-made man had any reason to boast of the fact.

"Fools are stubborn in their way."

"When in Rome, do as the Romans do."

Was the advice given by St. Ambrose to St. Augustine in the fourth century of our era

"Throw things to the dogs."

"They people shall be my people."

So spoke Ruth to her mother in-law Naomi, when Naomi bade her return to her own people, the Moabites. (Ruth i., 16)

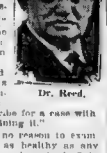
SECRETS OF HEALTH

EXAMINING A SCHOOLBOY

By Charles A. L. Reed, M. D.

"I JUST dropped in to get a little medicine for my boy, doctor. He comes home from school every day with the headache and seems to be nervous. I thought you might give some thing for it." "The way some people are is able to open the interview.



Dr. Reed.

"No, madam," replies the comedienne physician "I never prescribe for a case without first examining it."

"Oh, there's no reason to examine him. He's as healthy as any nine-year-old boy in school. Only he has headaches and is restless, can't sit still, and jumps and jerks in his sleep. That's all."

"That's all" you say. "The symptoms that you mention may seem very trifling, but they may mean something very serious. There are no little diseases no trifling symptoms. Everything that is not known with good health one. Has to have its cause determined and removed. You don't know what is the cause of your complaint on that you mention, consequently I don't know what they mean or how to remove them. I will not prescribe until I do. Bring your boy here and I'll be happy to examine him."

But she comes back the next afternoon with her little nine-year-old, already in the third grade.

"Does your desk fit you? Is it easy?"

"I have to raise my elbows to put them on the desk."

"Do you have any trouble with writing and drawing?"

"Yes. Sometimes I can't see the copy."

"Read the words on that card" and the doctor handing the lad some test type

Then he went on with the examination one only of the lad's eyes, but of his general condition

When he had concluded he said:

"You see the wisdom of bringing your boys here. I of course suspected he had an eye strain due to short-sightedness, but I now not only know it, but I know just what is causing it and will correct it."

"But that is not all. The boy's bench and desk were not made for him. He is on a constant muscular strain when he tries to work or study, which is the most serious kind of work. His seat must be changed.

WAYS OF A HUSBAND

SEQUEL TO "WHEN A GIRL MARRIES"

By Ann Lisle

ABOUT the last thing I should have chosen was to ride to town with Ross, but there seemed no way of avoiding it. So I tried to carry it off without giving any of how much I minded a tete-a-tete with her —and one between Jeanie and Miss Gregory. Bidding Gracia and MacAvoy a grateful good-by, I flung a farewell in the general direction of Jeanie's car with a casual word about seeing every one later. To my amazement, Jeanie took it up earnestly.

Ann Lisle

"Wait for me at your office, won't you, Ann, if you get there first? I want to have a visit to make up for the disappointment of losing you now. Au'voir."

"Good-by," called Miss Gregory cavalierly.

"Wait for me at your office, won't you, Ann, if you get there first? I want to have a visit to make up for the disappointment of losing you now. Au'voir."

"Good-by," called Miss Gregory cavalierly.

Ross stood aside with elaborate politeness waiting for me to precede her into the taxi. But as we did so she caught me to flick me on the raw in another second or two.

"How very polite the sister of our Jaimie was to you," she trilled.

"That is how you say—pretty darn formal—for sister-in-law. But Miss Gregory she is on what you call intimate term—not? I think she is maybe on her side. How you feel about it that they go off together, so friendly, White Lilac?"

"Virginia has the utmost 'savoir faire,'" I contrived to say noncommittantly.

"You are pretty good sport, too, White Lilac, for going to that woman's house. Or maybe you were there all the while—at the house-party with Jaime." In that how it was?"

"Ross," I laughed to cover my chagrin, "how do you bear your separation from Ramon, while your tender heart bleeds at the thought of my being away from Jim for even a week-end?"

Ross turned on me with flashing eyes. I wondered if I had gone too far.

As the car in which Rosa Cordova was driving me back to town from Ruth Gregory's careened down the turnpike, I could see Virginia's blue car ahead. I was worried by the realization that Virginia had shown instant approval of the woman whose friendship with Jim she seemed to consider a matter of pride

As I sat wondering how Virginia and Ruth Gregory were getting on. I was in no mood to deal with Rosa's gibing comments or to propiate her for my remark concerning her and Ramon. I simply hadn't the heart to meet Rosa's attack cleverly. But I realized I'd hurt her—or antagonized her to the point of danger.

I decided to swallow my pride and my distaste for what I had to reveal and to see if satisfying Rosa's curiosity would quench the sparkle of anger I'd brought to her eyes. So I said:

"I may as well confess that Jim and I spent a very modern week-end, as you were clever enough to guess."

"Yes," said Rosa nicely but with a rising inflection. "How?"

"Oh, I was forestathering with Jeanie and Pat and the Hoadleys while the MacAvoys and Count Ridleki and Miss Gregory entertained Jim." I said with elaborate lightness. "You and young Ramon have the same modern way of making your own friends, haven't you? Of course, Jim and I manage not to get too far apart—"

Just as I thought I'd done it again in my woeful, stupid misery, Rosa clapped her hands, crying out crisply:

"Bravo! Another woman would not like it how you hit so hard when you do hit, White Lilac. But me, I admire that one so sweet and mesh, shall fight when she has—what you say—her back against the wall.

What's Wrong Here?

Answer elsewhere on this page.

EVERYDAY MISTAKES

Wrong.

"Today I met a friend whom I had heard was dead."

Right.

The relative pronoun is the subject of the clause "who was dead," and consequently should be in the nominative case.

Wrong.

"Bill is a good guy"

Right.

"Bill is a good fellow"

Wrong.

"I am going to go to the ball game this afternoon."

Right.

"I am going to the ball game this afternoon."

"To go" is superfluous.

Wrong.

"I know aught of this matter."

Right.

"I know naught of this matter."

"Aught" means anything; "naught" means "nothing."

Wrong.

"John is more stronger than James."

Right.

"John is stronger than James."

The comparative of "strong" is "stronger."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Porcelain baths are cleaned best with dry borax. When of painted iron they should be rubbed vigorously with fresh paraffin, or, if dirty, with the addition of a little powdered bath brick, and afterward washed out thoroughly with soap and warm water.

Good mutton is bright and fresh in color, with firm meat and hard fat.

If parsley is washed with hot water instead of cold it retains its flavor and is easier to chop.

Medbury Says—

By John P. Medbury

WHILE there are hundreds of travel bureaus throughout the country, what we need most are personally conducted honeymoons.

WHEN a newly married couple go on a trip they don't want to be bothered with buying tickets and making reservations. They like to have plenty of time to fight.

MANY a man has let a quarrel with his wife because his mind was on something else.

BUT if you go on a personally conducted wedding trip you have plenty of time to do your battling in the hotel.

IT'S best to let some experienced guide map out your route. He knows which railroads have the most tunnels.

WITH fifteen or twenty couples on the same honeymoon, there can't help but be lots of excitement.

ANOTHER advantage is that a groom doesn't always have to fight with the same bride.

THESE excursions would be a great success, and it's needless to say that there'd be a lawyer along in case any of the couples wanted to get a divorce before their honeymoon was over.

BLAMING YOUR SPOUSE'S FAMILY FOR THE CHILDREN'S FAULTS.

It is unkind, when your children display certain disagreeable characteristics, to blame these on certain members of your spouse's family.

It is most uncharitable to say, "He acts just exactly like your father"—or mother, or uncle, or aunt, as the case may be.

The child has inherited its meanness from some forebear, no doubt.

But what is the use of trying to blame the disagreeable habits of your children on some other family, when to show yourself really big and broad and worth while you should "stand up and take your medicine," and admit he got them from you.

Polo Grounds, Nov. 24.—Fighting grimly on the slippery turf of a rain-soaked field the Army and Navy battled to a scoreless tie here this afternoon before a crowd estimated at 40,000. Their uniforms smeared with mud, their faces slashed and streaked with grime, the players left the field worn out and weary. The heavy rain removed the last possibility of open play and made spectacular work impossible.

FIRST PERIOD.

Army won the toss and Garbisch kicked to McKee, who returned the ball to the Navy 45-yard line. Three line plunges netted eight yards. And Navy punted. The punt went short.

It was Army's ball on their own 37-yard line. Line plunges by Wood and Gilmore gave the Army a first down.

The Navy line tightened, and following a five-yard penalty Army was forced to kick. Wood punted to McKee, who was downed on the Navy 20-yard line.

Cullen broke through the Army line and made it first down on the 35-yard line. McKee shot off tackle for 12 yards more, but the ball was brought both teams were offside McKee made five yards through the Tad Jones's mighty football machine scored a decisive victory over Bob Fisher's doughty Harvard eleven in the big Eastern classic before a crowd of 53,000 rain-soaked but none-the-less enthusiastic spectators in the Harvard Stadium.

Final score: Yale 13, Harvard 0.

The game was played in a torrential downpour of rain. The field was soggy, the ball water-soaked and heavy and the players sorely unrecognizable with heavy black coatings of mud adorning their faces.

HARVARD DOFFS NUMBERS.

Harvard players were numbered in the first half, but not in the second.

Yale's touchdown, the first in the Harvard stadium for 18 years, was made on a run of 71 yards by Pond, who picked up a loose ball when Cheek fumbled it. This was just after the kick-off in the second period.

Captain Mallory added a point by a place kick of the muddy ball after the touchdown.

Yale scored twice in the third period on placement kicks by Captain Mallory.

FIRST PERIOD.

Yale won toss and elected to defend the North goal. Harvard kicked off to Richeson on his 18-yard line. He ran it back 15 yards. Combs made the tackle.

EX-PASTOR CONFESSES FORGERIES

Bay State Health Officials to Join In Probe of Bogus Doctors

By BERT FORD

Hartford, Conn., Nov. 24.—"Have a heart, professor. The jink I'm pleading for may be a genius in disguise—another Abe Lincoln. Don't stand in his way of becoming great. Let's be a high school certificate for him and shoot him on his way to fame."

This is a sample of the chatter reeled off by the master mind of the Missouri diploma mills that peppered the country with 25,000 quacks, when they first began to hypnotize Professor William F. Sachs of St. Louis, ex-Lutheran minister, and, at the time, State examiner of public schools in Missouri.

According to Professor Sachs, who will testify before the grand jury extraordinary here on Monday, Dr. Robert Adcox of St. Louis, under arrest out there with other alleged ring leaders, was the chief culprit. Sachs says Adcox gave him $10 for bogus high school diplomas for which Adcox received as high as $500 and never less than $100.

In his confession to the Connecticut authorities Professor Sachs gives startling facts about the methods of the diploma mill gang. He tells how the same diplomas were sold three and four times and how signatures were traced through window panes. He says Adcox cleaned up nearly a quarter million dollars as his share, but that the gang merely used him (Sachs) as a dupe.

"Adcox was oily and suave," added Professor Sachs. "He would come to me pleading for a certificate for some poor Lincoln, a genius in the rough who might become a great man if I would consent to furnish the desired credentials."

Sachs said the Missouri diploma sharks considered Connecticut their most fertile "dumping ground," and adds: "I believe this traffic went on with the full knowledge of the board of national university."

BAY STATE ACTION.

Disclosures made by him and Harry T. Brundidge, investigator for the St. Louis Star, followed by conferences with State Health Commissioner Stanley A. Osborne of Connecticut have caused the Massachusetts State board of registration in medicine to select a committee to confer on Monday with the Connecticut authorities and with Foreman Benedict M. Holden of the Grand Jury extraordinary.

Connecticut officials have been cheered by the spirit of co-operation displayed by the medical officials of Massachusetts. They hope that New York and other States will show the solidity back of the so-called Validating act in Connecticut which was vetoed by Governor Templeton much to the dismay of the gang.

"There must be about 300 disreputable physicians in Connecticut," adds Prof. Sachs in his confession. "I'll not shield anybody. I have decided to make a clean breast of everything and not to spare even myself. Conscience prompts me to do everything possible to aid the supreme interest."

Professor Sachs will tell the grand jury that he made out bogus high school certificates and credits for two prominent physicians in Connecticut—members of the Connecticut Eclectic Society. These men are members of an organization which was expected to safeguard the medical profession from quacks.

Quack "Butcher" on Way to Surrender in Hartford

Hartford, Ct., Nov. 24 (I.N.S.).—State authorities today were awaiting the arrival here of "Doctor" George F. Sutcliffe, wanted by the Grand Jury investigating the medical diploma conspiracy, whose departure from Toronto, Canada, was reported to local police last night.

"Doctor" Sutcliffe's arrest was recommended by the Grand Jury as the result of allegations that he was guilty of neglect in the death of Albert Hoody, ex-service man, who died of other while Sutcliffe was performing a finger amputation.

On leaving Sutcliffe told acquaintances, it is said, that he would make all haste to reach Hartford and surrender.

TEACHER, CAPTIVE ALL NIGHT, WILL PROBABLY LOSE HER JOB

Westfield, Nov. 24.—Much sympathy is expressed here today for Miss Antoinette Leger, teacher of the Little River District School, who will probably lose her position because her suitor, Raymond Underwood of Somerville, Ct., held her captive all night in his automobile in the woods near this city. Miss Leger's parents have been in consultation with the School Committee, but the committee gave them no definite word of their intentions in the matter of continuing the young teacher in her employment.

According to Miss Leger's parents, Underwood called at the school for Miss Leger and invited her for a short ride in his sedan. He consented with a provision that he return her to her home in fifteen minutes. He drove into the woods and, her father states, kept her there all night against her will and in spite of her frantic appeals to take her home.

HOPE OF LIFE HELD FOR GIRL 'DYING OF BROKEN HEART'

Camden, N. J., (I.N.S.)—Little Helen Hamilton, who has prayed that she may have her birthday party before she dies of a fractured heart, received her birthday present today.

It was the hope of life—the promise of a distinguished physician that she may not die after all, although there had been little hope that she would live until Monday when she will have her thirteenth birthday party.

Dr. George W. Norris, Philadelphia specialist, said today that Helen can live.

"There is no reason why the child should be despaired of," he said. "I know of a dozen cases similar to her's and they are living."

YOUTHFUL GUNMEN GET $229 IN 2 RHODE ISLAND HOLDUPS

Providence, Nov. 24.—Two storekeepers in this city and Pawtucket were held up and robbed by two youthful gunmen early today.

Police believe both robberies were perpetrated by the same pair, who escaped in each instance in an automobile. The first place entered was an Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company store in Providence, where, after holding up the manager at the point of a gun, $25 was taken from the till. Entering the store of Manuel Zouza at Pawtucket, the gunmen held the proprietor and three other persons at bay while the cash register was looted of $204.

DOCTOR INJURED BY AN AUTO WHILE HURRYING TO PATIENT

Dr. Rudolph Sykora, forty-six years old, of No. 225 Kittredge street, Roslindale, hurrying to his garage early today to speed to a patient was struck by an automobile and so badly hurt he is in the Forest Hills Hospital. He was struck in Hayden street, near his home. The machine was driven by William Lucey of Loring street, Islington.

Today, speaking into a microphone, he will address 80,000 on the Bolton football field. Arrangements have been made also for broadcasting Lloyd George's speeches.

RADIO GETS LLOYD GEORGE; TO BROADCAST IN BRITAIN

London, Nov. 24.—For the first time in the history of British politics, voice amplifiers will enable millions to hear the messages of party leaders in the present campaign. Lloyd George's recent trip to the United States is responsible.

When the former Premier left for a fortnight's campaign in the North, he was preceded by a band of electricians who will install loud-speaking apparatus in all the halls in which he will speak.

EX-CROWN PRINCE TO VISIT ITALY TO SEE HIS BROTHER

London, Nov. 24.—The Berlin correspondent of the Daily Mail forwards a report that former Crown Prince Frederick William has asked for an Italian visa, intending to go to Morano, an Italian health resort in the former Austrian Tyrol, where his brother, Adalbert, is staying.

MAN BEATEN TO DEATH IN CAMBRIDGE

The body of a man was found on Hunting street, East Cambridge, about twelve feet from the Somerville city line today by Jacob Rosen, a foreman in the North Packing Company.

The man had evidently been brutally murdered. The clothing was stripped from the body.

Blood stains led from where the body was found to a point some distance over the Somerville line.

The man's head had been battered with some heavy weapon, and, although the police thought life was not extinct in the body when they arrived, the man was dead when the body arrived at Cambridge City Hospital.

TWO MEN QUESTIONED.

Michael Collins, who lives at No. 30 Hunting street, told the police he saw two men dragging what appeared to be a bedsheet through the street early today, but did not attach much significance to it.

Two men were questioned on suspicion by the Cambridge police and they announce an arrest probable later today.

Initials "J. C. G." tatooed on the left arm are the only clew to identity in possession of the police. Other tattooings indicate the man had been a sailor. Police now say he was evidently an American and not a foreigner, as at first believed.

SIMILAR CASE.

Robbery is believed to be the motive for the man's beating and subsequent death. He had but 5 cents in his pockets.

A similar case occurred in the same locality less than a week ago, when a man was robbed, beaten and thrown into a standing automobile unconscious. He came to an hour and a half later and reported it to the police.

They are inclined to link the two cases up with a gang operating in the section.

Somerville police are also on the case.

BOSTON COAL SHIP AGROUND; CREW SAFE

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 24.—The British freighter River Wye, losing her way in a dense fog, piled up on the rocks off Fort Mouton Island today. The crew was taken off in small boats dispatched from the shore.

Wireless messages broadcast by the freighter when she grounded asked for immediate assistance, and it was thought the vessel was pounding to pieces. Later advices, however, indicated that she was in no immediate danger. The government steamer Lady Laurier was sent to her aid.

The River Wye, of 2,258 net tons, left Swansea November 6, with coal for Boston.

ALL-NIGHT GRID CELEBRATION BARRED TO WELLESLEY GIRLS

The recent joy ride to Holliston of four Wellesley undergraduates, three of whom were expelled, with a party of young men reacted on the entire student body today. The usual all night liberty given to undergraduates, under restrictions, on the night of the Harvard-Yale game, has been cancelled.

More than 300 of the students have invitations to the game and to student dances that follow the game, but every one of them must be on her way to Wellesley by 12:30 a. m. in one of the big motor busses that have been engaged to convey them back to the college.

In previous years the students have been permitted to remain out all night at certain approved houses in Boston and Cambridge.

BOXING RULES FOR GOLF LINKS; INJURED PLAYER LOSES SUIT

New York, Nov. 24.—A player on a golf course—just as a boxer in the ring—must protect himself at all times.

That was the decision reached by a jury in Supreme Court, when they denied John B. Harris, bond salesman, $15,000 damages he asked from Henry Coe, Jr., of Syosset, L. I., for injuries received when he was struck by a golf ball while playing on the links of the Rumson Country Club at Seabright, N. J., in July, 1920.

Harris' suit is said to have been the first ever brought for an injury due to being struck by a golf ball. He alleged that he had not yet left the green ahead of Coe when the latter "teed off" for the sixteenth hole.

The ball struck Harris on the head. He claimed the blow caused a concussion of the brain and consequent physical and mental suffering, and temporary mental derangement.

POLICE HUNT GUN-BRIDE; HUSBAND ADMITS SLAYING

Chicago, Nov. 24 (I.N.S.).—Police combed the city today for the eighteen-year-old bride of Otto Malm, pulp-roled slayer, who completed the confession to a string of burglaries with the admission that he shot down Edward Lehman, watchman of the Delson Manufacturing Company the night of November 5. His wife was with him, he said.

Malm warned police that his wife has "her gun with her and is out to get those who brought trouble to her man." Officers assigned to the search have orders to shoot it out with the gun-woman when they meet her.

Malm said his wife suffered a slight wound from a stray shot at the time Lehman was killed, but had recovered.

ALLIED SPLIT WORST EVER, DECLARES LLOYD GEORGE

Glasgow, Nov. 24.—Former Premier Lloyd George declared in a campaign speech here today that Great Britain's relations with France were never worse.

"I doubt whether in living memory they have been quite so bad as now," he said.

The ex-Premier asserted that the Liberal party's remedy for unemployment was the restoration of peace in Europe. "Let the Angel of Peace be given a chance in Europe," he said.

The opportunity of hearing Herbert Asquith and Lloyd George speak from the same platform for the first time since the great Liberal split occurs in Mr. Asquith's Paisley District tonight. The demand for tickets has been unprecedented.

RESCUE MALDEN FIREMAN OVERCOME BY GAS AT FIRE

Lieutenant Loren A. Keddie of the Malden fire department was overcome by illuminating gas while fighting a fire in the Mason-Chittle dry goods store on Cross street in that city today.

Hoseman Michael Sullivan and John McGrath risked their lives in rushing to their unconscious officer's rescue. They dragged him to safety after nearly succumbing to the deadly gas themselves. Lieutenant Keddie was taken to his home and his physician says he will recover.

The fire loss was small.

BOY AND GIRL HERE FOR GAME STEAL A MARCH AND WED

Ran can spoil a football game but it can't spoil Arthur Fitz's afternoon. He came to Boston from New Haven with Isabelle Barter to see the big game. After they got here they looked at the skies and decided a stadium was no place to spend an afternoon.

"Can't spoon without a chaperone, either.

"In a case like that there's only one thing to do," said Arthur. "Let's get married." They did.

PROMISES TO HELP 'DOC' COOK GET PARDON IN FIVE YEARS

Washington, Nov. 24 (I.N.S.).—Dr. E. E. Dudding, president of the Prisoners' Relief Society, declared today in a letter to Dr. Frederick A. Cook that the former Texas Oil promoter was treated "very badly" by the judge at Fort Worth, who sentenced him to serve fourteen years in Leavenworth Prison for using the mails to defraud.

"It will come home to him," Dudding said, at the same time advising Dr. Cook to go to Leavenworth without further protest, and promising him the aid of the Prisoners' Relief Society in getting a pardon at the end of five years.

$500,000 JEWEL ROBBERY AT ENGLISH WOMAN'S HOME

London, Nov. 24. (I.N.S.)—One of the biggest and most daring jewel robberies in recent years in Great Britain, was reported to Scotland Yard today. Burglars broke into the home of Mrs. Oakley Maund, escaping with jewels valued at $500,000.

GOLD STATUE OF SACRED BULL FOUND IN TOMB OF KING TUT

Luxor, Egypt, Nov. 24 (I.N.S.).—In searching further the outer shrine of the tomb of Tutankhamen, in the Valley of Kings, Howard Carter, the Egyptologist in charge of the work, today discovered a gold statue of Apis, the sacred bull of ancient Egypt.

There was a small niche containing a small statue of the 3,000-year-old Pharoah, bearing the cartouche of Tut, indicating it had been made for him after his return from Thebes.

MASS OF POISON PEN LETTERS AT STATE HOUSE

Boston's State House was flooded today with copies of an anonymous letter, attacking the Catholic church, Jewish people, President Coolidge, Secretary of State Hughes and the government of he United States.

Every democratic legislator on the Hill found one in his mail box.

They were signed "100 Per Cent. American."

"President Coolidge," it read, "is lacking any real Americanism because of his attitude toward the Reparations Conference. You legislators are warned to beware of the influence of the Roman Catholic Church and the Jewish people."

Following an attack on the League of Nations and the World Court, the letter reads:

"The same tireless alien influence has been at work recently striving to get America into the so-called Reparations Conference. It is announced that this has utterly failed not because President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes have shown any real Americanism or genuine light as they are still under the spell of European influence, but because Christ prohibited their betraying their country."

Representative Coleman E. Kelly of Boston said he would introduce a bill directing a copy of the Constitution of the United States be sent to every voter in Massachusetts when Initiative and Referendum literature is sent out by the Secretary of the Commonwealth.

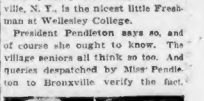
"People will then learn to disbelieve such trash," said Mr. Kelly.

State Senator William J. Francis of Boston, on finding the letter in his mail, at once communicated with the postal authorities and demanded an investigation. He also wrote to President Coolidge, urging him to have the Postoffice Department at Washington endeavor to find out who mailed the poison pen letter. If he gets no action he will introduce a resolve into the Senate when that body assembles, asking that official notice of the letter be taken at Washington.

PICK TWO GIRLS AS WELLESLEY'S BEST FRESHMEN

Pretty Mary Bostwick, of Bronxville, N. Y., is the nicest little Freshman at Wellesley College.

President Pendleton says so, and of course she ought to know. The village seniors all think so too. And queries despatched by Miss Pendleton to Bronxville verify the fact.



Mary Bostwick Nancy Southworth

Nancy Southworth, who comes from Syracuse, is rated second best, and so Nancy is class secretary—a very high honor indeed, when one reflects that the freshman class numbers almost 450 girls.

Class officers are appointed the last of November by President Pendleton, and hold office pending the regular election, when their appointments are unanimously confirmed.

In order that she may make a wise selection, Miss Pendleton, before naming the pro tem officers, confers with the Village seniors, whose business it is to keep a watchful eye on all little Freshmen. Then she writes the home towns of all girls under consideration, inquiring as to their characters and their high school records.

Now she has announced that Mary and Nancy are the best little girls in the class of 1927.
